TEN INFLUENZA CASES TAKEN TO CITY HOSPITAL

Disease Comparatively Insignificant in St. Louis—Vaccination Free at Municipal Courts Building.

Ten cases of influenza have been taken to the city hospital in the last 24 hours.

Assistant Health Commissioner Jordan said today that the number of cases in the city still is comparatively insignificant. "Precautions are always advisable," he added, "and if citizens will remember the instructions during the prevalence of the disease last year, much may be accomplished toward prevention of a recurrence. Keep homes well ventilated and avoid persons with colds as primary measures. Vaccination against the disease will be given in the Health Department in the Municipal Courts building free of charge."

SUSPENSION OF SENATE TREATY CONFERENCES IS THREATENED

Senators Disagree Over Reservation on Equality of Voting in League of Nations.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Senate leaders participating in the bipartisan conference for compromise reservations to the peace treaty reported today that they were close to suspension of the conference because of disagreement over the Foreign Relations Committee reservation regarding equality of voting in the League of Nations.

Launching of a new and independent movement for compromise on the treaty was considered today by "mild reservation" Republicans and a group of Democrats desiring ratification, who were said to have been convinced that the compromise resolutions were not producing results.

One of the "mild reservation" Republicans participating in the informal conference declared that, if the bipartisan committee failed to report substantial progress within 24 hours, steps independent of the leaders would be taken, with promise of support from Democratic Senators not on the Democratic committee.

Among the suggestions made was one for circulation of a "round robin" petition among Republicans and Democrats calling a joint conference of Senators favoring a compromise. Both Republican and Democratic members said the conference were near a complete break, but that one more effort would be made toward adjustment late today. Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, the Republican leader, and Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, the Democratic leader, were said to feel that it would be useless for the informal committee conferences to proceed if adjustment of differences over this reservation became impossible.

"PROFESSOR X" RECOGNIZES WIFE AFTER THREE YEARS

Amnesia Victim Slowly Is Recovering Memory and Recalling His Past Life.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Jan. 20.—Dr. John L. Brand, the amnesia victim, known formerly as "Professor X" today recognized his wife when they met for the first time in three years.

The reunion occurred at the home of the son, Commander Charles Brand. Mrs. Brand had just completed the trip from Fort Leavenworth.

Dr. Brand has been gradually recalling his past life. He is taking daily exercise and is growing stronger physically and his mental power slowly returns.

Skating in All the Parks. There is skating in all the parks today. It is possible the toboggan slides on Art Hill in Forest Park will be working by evening, although not certain. The ice on the lakes and lagoons was unsafe yesterday because of mild temperature.

Army Also Announces That Smaller Epidemics Are Reported at Love Field, Tex., and Fort Sheridan, Ill.

PREVALENT AMONG U. S. UNITS OVERSEAS

With 1887 New Cases Reported in 24 Hours Disease in Chicago Approaches Mark of 1918.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Influenza has become epidemic among American soldiers at Camps Grant, Rockford, Ill., and at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, Surgeon-General Ireland of the army, announced today. Smaller epidemics have been reported from Love Field, Tex., and Fort Sheridan, Ill. Gen. Ireland said, and the disease is prevalent among American troops in Europe.

The incidence of pneumonia thus far has been low, Gen. Ireland said, and the type of the disease appears to be mild.

The outbreak among the American troops in Germany has assumed more alarming proportions with 163 new cases reported there for the week ended Jan. 9, an increase of 56 over the week before. There also were 23 new cases of pneumonia. The outbreak of influenza in the Coblenz command is accompanied by a marked increase in the death rate for the troops in Europe. For the week ended Jan. 9, the annual death rate for disease was 36 per thousand as against the rate of three per thousand the week before.

Chicago Has 13 Deaths From Influenza in 24 Hours.

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—Influenza cases reported to the City Health department today nearly reached the high point of last winter's epidemic. In 24 hours the list reached 1887 new cases with 13 deaths recorded. In the same period, pneumonia afflicted 227 persons with 30 fatalities.

Two outlying theaters were closed today by the city officials for failure to observe the sanitary and ventilation rules of the Health department. All available trained nurses were being mobilized by the Health department to help combat the epidemic. At least 10,000 additional nurses would be needed, Dr. John Dill Robertson, Health Commissioner, announced. The total number of influenza cases now exceeds 4000. The hospitals are filled.

Expert pathologists are engaged in laboratory investigations with a view to creating a definitely effective serum against the spread of the contagion.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 20.—Camp Dix has been closed through quarantine because of an epidemic of influenza and diphtheria, together with many cases of other diseases. There are now 400 cases of influenza and 200 cases of diphtheria at the base hospital, with 300 cases of other ailments. There have been no deaths.

Five Deaths From Influenza Reported in Kansas City.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 20.—Five deaths from influenza and nine from pneumonia were reported to the Vital Statistics Bureau of the city Health Board yesterday. Twenty-nine cases of influenza were reported.

Twenty-Nine New Cases at Dallas in 24 Hours.

DALLAS, Tex., Jan. 20.—Twenty-nine new cases of influenza have been reported in Dallas within 12 hours. At Love Field there were said to be about 35 cases among the personnel of 250 men.

RUSSIAN STOCKS AWAIT ONLY SHIPS TO SUPPLY WORLD

Bolsheviks Expect to Permit Free Interchange of Manufactured Goods and Raw Materials.

ENVOYS ANNOUNCE PLANS FOR TRADE

Sales to Be Arranged Through Co-operative Stores, Which Have Escaped Control by Soviet.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, Jan. 20.—Elaborate plans for the resumption of commercial relations between the Russian people and allied nations have been worked out and it is expected the Bolsheviks will permit the free interchange of manufactured goods and raw materials. It will be a comparatively simple matter to distribute goods among the Russian people under the agreement announced last Friday by the Supreme Council, it is said by Russians who assisted in the negotiations that preceded the announcement. Surplus stocks of wheat, flax and lumber await export from Russia, and all that is needed is ocean tonnage to carry these products to the markets of the world.

Details of the plan to be followed were given the Associated Press today by Alexander M. Berkenheim and Constantin Kropovoskoff, respectively president and member of the Foreign Board of the Russian Co-operative Union, through which trade will be carried on. They concluded the negotiations with the Supreme Council which brought about the adoption of policy reversing that followed by the allies during the last two years.

"It must be understood the agreement has no political character whatever," asserted Mr. Berkenheim. "It is merely an economic, financial and humanitarian arrangement. Russian co-operative unions, organized 30 years ago, now number 500 branches and have 50,000 local societies with 25,000,000 members. These societies operate throughout Russia whether under Bolshevik rule or controlled by the Government. It is a sort of Russian economic Red Cross."

On February, 1919, we laid before the British Foreign Office and also the American State Department our plan for the exchange of Russian raw material for manufactured goods from allied countries. Mr. Kropovoskoff and I were summoned last week before the Supreme Council, where this plan was adopted.

"The plan is very simple. We have in Russia great stocks of wheat, cereals, cattle and flax which, owing to the complete suppression of exportation during the last few years and the record crop of 1919, are now larger than Russia ever disposed of previous to the war. This is especially true in the interior of Russia, where consumption has also diminished."

"The problems must be met in order to arrive at an exchange of goods—first, transformation of raw material outside of Russia. Second, the mode of payment to Russian producers, and, third, distribution of imported goods to Russian consumers. Surplus stocks of grain are situated in the regions of Ekaterinograd, Kherson, Tver and Kuban and also in the region of Volodga and Siberia. The crop in the last two regions was sufficient for the needs of Russian population while the stocks from the first four regions are available for export to the Black Sea ports of Odessa, Kherson and Nikolayev. Flax available for export is found in the district east of the Volga and may be taken out to the ports of Riga, Reval and Petrograd. Timber from Northern Russia can be shipped by the way of Archangel."

"We require in return farming and agricultural implements, cloth, guns, locomotives, motors, automobiles and medical supplies. Ship tonnage must be furnished by the allies as Russia's shipping has completely disappeared. We must import first rubber, then oil. Shipments may enter Black, Baltic and White Sea ports loaded with goods needed by Russia and may return with our exports."

"M. Berkenheim would not say whether this tonnage had been promised by Great Britain. Russian peasants absolutely refuse to accept any sort of paper money and the question of payment for goods exported presented considerable difficulty, but a solution was reached, according to M. Berkenheim, as follows:

"Imports will come to Russia consigned to us," he said. "They will be distributed to our stores throughout the country and we will purchase grain and cereals from peasants paying them in rubles at a fixed rate. We will also give them credit entitling them to purchase from our stores imported goods for the identical amount of rubles we paid them when they were selling their own stocks. All dealings must be done through our co-operative societies."

"We controlled by Bolsheviks. M. Berkenheim informed M. Berkenheim that it was the belief in France the Bolsheviks would surrender distribution and allow goods to reach their adherents while the rest of the population might go hungry and naked."

"Our stores are not under the control of the Bolsheviks," he re-

Four of the Suspended Socialist Legislators to Be Tried Today

SAMUEL ORR

AUGUST CLEASSENS

CHARLES SOLOMON LOUIS WALDMAN

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, Jan. 20.—The Government fight of the Judiciary Committee to conduct the proceedings and urged that it report back to the Assembly that a special committee be elected by the Assembly, but by the speaker of the Assembly, to hear the evidence. "Judges," he said, "must be unprejudiced. We hold, first, that you were appointed by the assembly, and second, that you have publicly expressed your opinion as to their guilt."

"Says Judges Are Accusers." These proceedings were not instituted by the Assembly, but by the speaker of the Assembly. "You men stand here, not as judges, but as accusers. A majority of you have publicly condemned these men in advance."

In opposing Hillquit's motion, John F. Stanchfield, associated counsel for the prosecution, cited Congressional precedent for the Assembly's procedure.

"We resort to no technicalities," Stanchfield said. "These men are entitled to no representation. If it wished, the committee might hold its sessions in secret and then report its findings to the House. But it has elected to give them a public and impartial hearing."

Falling to obtain favorable action on his motion, Hillquit challenged the right of several members of the Judiciary Committee to sit. He named Chairman Martin and Assemblymen Pellet and Jenks on the ground that the members of the Judiciary Committee investigating radical activities, they had prejudged the case.

In challenging Assemblyman Louis A. Oliver, Hillquit said that at last night's session of the Assembly, Oliver had declared if the five Socialist legislators were guilty they should not be expelled, but shot.

Chairman Martin overruled the challenge. Hillquit next moved to dismiss the proceedings on the ground that they were not warranted by the Constitution or the laws of the State.

Resolutions Laid Over. Five resolutions introduced in the Assembly dealing with the cases of the five suspended Socialist members, one providing that they should be released, were laid over for a week at today's session of the House.

The five defendants—Louis Waldman, August Claessens, Samuel Orr and Charles Solomon, all of New York, were present.

In addition to these resolutions seeking to "validate" the proceedings of the Legislature by releasing the suspended members, introduced last night, two other resolutions proposed at the same time were read.

One by Assemblyman J. Fairfax McLaughlin would bar Attorney-General Newton from "trespassing" in the Assembly by conducting the case for the Judiciary Committee, and another by Assemblyman Joseph Steinberg would expunge from the record an attack in the House last week by Assemblyman Martin McGuire on the "loyalty" of Charles Evans Hughes, in opposing the suspension action.

The House supported the chair, 97 to 1, in an appeal from its decision on the McLaughlin resolution. Just before the hearing began an executive session, after which it was announced that the majority of the committee had voted that the committee from the Bar Association from the City of New York had no standing at the hearings.

While counsel for the Judiciary Committee has indicated that the case will go to trial on the charges contained in the ouster resolution that the suspended members were pledged to a party in the House, the case of the suspended members was postponed the cause of Soviet Russia and international revolution, Morris Hillquit, who heads the attorneys for the defense, has announced that "at the present time" he will call for a full bill of particulars. The defense has obtained from the Judiciary Committee a list of 41 blank subpoenas for witnesses.

Hillquit stated he expected to receive "justice" and a "fair trial" from the committee, but that if his clients were accorded arbitrary rulings they would "walk out."

Hillquit, in opening, challenged the

TEXAS SENDS RANGERS TO OKLAHOMA LINE

Claimants to Oil Lands in Strip in Dispute Between States Threaten Trouble.

By the Associated Press.
AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 20.—Serious threats by claimants of oil lands in dispute between Texas and Oklahoma that they will take the law in their own hands, present possibilities of a civil war along the Texas-Oklahoma boundary, said W. A. Keeling, Assistant Attorney-General, today, and Rangers have been sent to the region to prevent further trouble. Both Texas and Oklahoma claimants threaten to shoot anyone who interferes with their occupation of the property, he continued.

The oil fields in the Burk Burnett and Wichita Falls region lie on both sides of the Texas-Oklahoma line, which at this point is Red River. Keeling stated that he would leave for Wichita County tonight and that 13 rangers have been ordered to report to Adjutant-General W. D. Cope, who has been in that region for several days. Keeling said that the disputed territory will be regarded as Texas land, and the Federal Courts decide that it belongs to Oklahoma, and, until this decision comes, State forces will support and defend those holding the land under Texas claims.

which they drove to Cicard's restaurant, at Delmar and Euclid, arriving there about 11 o'clock. He said he ordered a bottle of beer, and that Waltke ordered some oysters and a drink, but he did not see what the drink was.

"Do you know what Waltke drank?" he was asked.

"I know he didn't get enough to get intoxicated," the witness replied. He was not questioned further about the drink.

The party left after two dances, he said, and started to take Mrs. Heinrichs home. They went west on Delmar to Clark avenue, where they turned right on Cates. Dickmann said he and Mrs. Heinrichs were in the rear seat, he on the right side.

"We were not going more than 20 miles an hour when we got to Goodfellow," he said. He was asked if they were going that fast.

"Going About 20 Miles," he answered. "We had practically fello when there was a flash of light and a crash, and I had a feeling of going through the air."

He was lying on his side, and Mrs. Heinrichs and I were lying beside each other, with our heads and shoulders out on the street, and our feet inside the car.

When the Buick departed at Hango, on Friday, the vice consular clerks from Helsingfors were kept by the request of Alexander Berkman for the purpose of conveying money in American savings banks to their families. Berkman said that during the day he had disposed of their money, and that about $100,000 had to be left behind by others.

As the deportees emerged from the ship the members of the party, headed by Emma Goldman, refused to enter the comfortable compartment train in waiting, unless all were treated alike. Miss Goldman said that during the voyage special cabins and special food had been given to the educated deportees, while the others had been given the hold, where there was bilgewater.

The complaint was settled by putting all into third-class carriages. Task in Getting 'Em Across. The American government at first proposed to retain the American deportees in Finland as hostages for Finns behind Red lines. American Commissioner Haynes in Finland then met with the Finnish government to the Finnish Government for transportation, attendance and soldiers.

Miss Goldman said: "I haven't any idea of imposing my anarchism upon Russia. I am a friend to any revolution, so long as it is true to the working class."

Nearly All Skilled Artisans. "I guess there will be plenty of work in the Soviet shops for the boys who are with me. They are nearly all skilled artisans. Scores of them have only the vaguest idea of society or government. They were unlucky enough to join a society of adherents of the Russian revolution in the early days of that upheaval in the hope of getting home quickly. They thought that when the lid of Czar bureaucracy was lifted there would be a better life for them in Russia than in America. Hundreds of them would like to have gone to Russia, but they never got a chance. Then the American Bolsheviks came. They were asking them if they believed in Soviets or in Bolshevism. 'I don't suppose they love the American Government, but they do love America,' for they have made money. Some tell me they will want to go back to the United States some day, as I do."

SHOPS COUNCILS BILL PASSED IN GERMANY

Affects All Places Where More Than Five Are Employed, Excepting Newspapers.

By the Associated Press.
BERLIN, Sunday, Jan. 18.—The shops councils bill, otherwise known as the "exploitation law," one of the most radical pieces of economic legislation since the war, was passed by the National Assembly today, after five days' acrimonious debate. The measure affects all places where more than five men or women are employed, excepting newspapers. In which business the councils are permitted to elect a steward, five or more employees to elect a steward, who will confer with the employer on the relations with the workers and the general conduct of the business. The number of stewards will vary proportionately to the size of the staff, whose representatives will now be given the privilege of attending their "meeting where they will be active voters although not shareholders."

The union or department chief may be forced to quit regardless of his services to his employer. This feature was stubbornly fought by the big business interests. One of the last modifications of the bill goldman an employer from discharging a woman and substituting a male employee for reason of sex alone.

The bill does not satisfy the Independents, who clamored for a measure after the Russian pattern, and it was especially opposed by both right and left, because of its radical interference with the agrarian and big industrial working systems. Skepticism is frequently poured on all ranks with regard to the workability of the measure, and clashes between capital and labor, it is feared, will be inevitable.

Owing to its wide ramifications, it will be a year or two before its full effect is established. It is estimated that the membership of the stewards in the shops councils will exceed 500,000.

Transport Buford Reaches Helsingfors on Return From Hango.

By the Associated Press.
HELSINGFORS, Monday, Jan. 13.—The United States Transport Buford, which brought the deportees from the United States to Finland, arrived at Helsingfors this afternoon, having sailed from Hango this morning with the destroyer Ballard, her convoy.

When the Buford debarked at Hango, on Friday, the vice consular clerks from Helsingfors were kept by the request of Alexander Berkman for the purpose of conveying money in American savings banks to their families. Berkman said that during the day he had disposed of their money, and that about $100,000 had to be left behind by others.

As the deportees emerged from the ship the members of the party, headed by Emma Goldman, refused to enter the comfortable compartment train in waiting, unless all were treated alike. Miss Goldman said that during the voyage special cabins and special food had been given to the educated deportees, while the others had been given the hold, where there was bilgewater.

The complaint was settled by putting all into third-class carriages. Task in Getting 'Em Across. The American government at first proposed to retain the American deportees in Finland as hostages for Finns behind Red lines. American Commissioner Haynes in Finland then met with the Finnish government to the Finnish Government for transportation, attendance and soldiers.

Miss Goldman said: "I haven't any idea of imposing my anarchism upon Russia. I am a friend to any revolution, so long as it is true to the working class."

Nearly All Skilled Artisans. "I guess there will be plenty of work in the Soviet shops for the boys who are with me. They are nearly all skilled artisans. Scores of them have only the vaguest idea of society or government. They were unlucky enough to join a society of adherents of the Russian revolution in the early days of that upheaval in the hope of getting home quickly. They thought that when the lid of Czar bureaucracy was lifted there would be a better life for them in Russia than in America. Hundreds of them would like to have gone to Russia, but they never got a chance. Then the American Bolsheviks came. They were asking them if they believed in Soviets or in Bolshevism. 'I don't suppose they love the American Government, but they do love America,' for they have made money. Some tell me they will want to go back to the United States some day, as I do."

According to the census taken by the committee, about 125 are Anarchists, about 20 believe in the Soviet form of government, and some disclaim any particular leanings.

Dry Enforcement Officers Make First Arrest Here

Digges and Deputies Enter Saloon of Henry Koch, Buy Drinks, Then Seize 21 Gallons of Wine and Whisky.

The first arrest of a saloon keeper on a charge of violating constitutional prohibition was made at 9 o'clock last night, the man arrested being Henry Koch, proprietor of a saloon at 220 South Fourth street.

Frank T. Digges, chief enforcement officer for Missouri, visited the saloon, accompanied by several deputies. They reported that they saw Koch selling whisky, wine and beer, and themselves ordered and obtained drinks of whisky.

The place was searched and the Government agents confiscated 11 cases of bottled beer, 20 gallons of port wine and a gallon of whisky. The intoxicants were taken to the Federal Building to be held as evidence.

One of the Government agents reported that he purchased a drink of port wine and a pint bottle of the same wine from Koch and that he returned to the saloon a short time later and had no difficulty in buying two drinks of whisky. He said that in addition to the cases of beer he found a dozen bottles of ice and Koch told him these were for his personal use.

Warrants were issued this afternoon charging Koch and his brother, Louis, a bartender for him, with violation of constitutional prohibition.

"OLD PHILADELPHIA LADY" DOOMED WITH SALE OF HERALD

Letter, Published in Paris Daily for 19 Years by Bennett's Order Likely to Disappear.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—The "Old Philadelphia Lady" finally is doomed, it is assumed, since Frank Munsey, who has bought the New York Herald is a business man, not much regard for traditions and few, if any, superstitions.

The "Old Philadelphia Lady" letter is probably the strangest showing of the peculiarities of the late James Gordon Bennett. Late in a December in the last years of the last century, on the editorial page of the Paris edition of the Herald, this letter was printed.

From Centigrade to Fahrenheit. To the Editor of the Herald, Paris, Dec. 24, 1899.

I am anxious to find out the way to figure the temperature from Centigrade to Fahrenheit, and vice versa. In other words, I want to know whenever I see the temperature designated on a Centigrade thermometer, how to find out what it would be on a Fahrenheit thermometer.

The following day, either by mistake or design, it was printed again. Something happened that day, no body seems to know just what, and Bennett, who lived in Paris, gave positive orders to the editor of the Paris edition that the letter was to be printed each day until he ordered it discontinued.

Year in and year out since then, the letter has been printed in every edition of the Paris Herald. Editors have come and gone, each one trying to "kill" the letter, until he ran against Bennett's order, which he immediately obeyed. When Bennett died, after the letter had seen some 19 years of daily publicity, it was under its original date, the men in control thought it better to let the letter continue until the will was read, and after that, still having no light, they kept it in the "Letters from the People" column.

If anyone besides Bennett knew why he kept on printing the letter, the knowledge is lost now. Some said he had had a stroke of fortune the day it was printed first, and kept it in the paper as a good omen. Others said the date had a significance for him, and he reprinted it daily so that he could find the date without referring to a memorandum book.

NINE MEN FINED FOR SETTING UP LOTTERIES AT STREET FAIR

Raffling Poultry and Groceries at Jefferson and Chouteau Charged—Each Pays $50.

Pleas of guilty were entered today by nine men charged with establishing lotteries in connection with a street fair at Jefferson and Chouteau avenues several months ago. They were fined $50 each. The fair was raided by the police when it was found that ducks, geese and groceries were being raffled there by the concessionaires.

Those fined were John Brophy, 254 Goodfellow avenue; William Kenig, 1717 Geyer avenue; William Kriker, 2526 Charlton street; Frank Layman, 2927 Shaw avenue; Bert Levy, 1419 South Broadway; John Linnemeyer, 1821 Schild avenue; Abe Schneider, 1424 North Garrison street; and David Wishnau, 2903 Gamble street.

The case against Don C. Rosebone was dismissed, it being shown that he had joined the military service since his arrest.

REPLY ON DEMAND FOR KAISER IN FEW DAYS

High Officials of Holland Give Assurance of Early Action on Request of Allies.

By the Associated Press.
THE HAGUE, Jan. 20.—The demand of the allies upon Holland for the surrender of former Emperor William reached The Hague late Saturday night, through the Ambassador of the Netherlands at Paris, to whom it was handed, Friday, by the General Secretary of the peace conference. The Dutch Government yesterday asked that the following acknowledgment of its receipt be published:

"We learn that the demand for the delivery of the former German Emperor into the hands of the allied Powers, which is based on Article 227 of the treaty of Versailles, has now reached the Dutch Foreign Office."

High officials of the Dutch Government have given assurance that an answer to the allied demand will be forthcoming within a few days. The Government is being advised by the best Dutch lawyers and not by the Court of Justice, as in the instance of First Lieutenant Kurt Vogel, whose extradition was demanded of the Netherlands by Germany on the ground that he was guilty of murder in connection with the killing of Rosa Luxemburg, the radical leader.

Von Lersner Predicts Demand for Wilhelm Will Fail.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, Jan. 20.—Belief that the efforts of the allies to get former Emperor William out of Holland would prove unsuccessful was expressed today by Baron Kurt von Lersner, Germany's chief representative here.

"I am absolutely sure the Dutch Government will never surrender the former German Emperor for trial on charges that are not provided for in any constitution, any laws or any treaties regarding extraditions," he said.

With regard to the expected demand for the extradition of German subjects for trial for acts committed during the war, he declared himself certain that public sentiment in every country was against such a demand.

"It is contrary to any law or any precedent," he said. "The feeling of the whole world in favor of peace is stronger than the feeling anywhere for revenge. I hope strongly that the allied statesmen will find a solution of this question that will leave the world in tranquility."

The Supreme Council has adopted the British and French proposals regarding the lists of those guilty of crimes incident to the war whose surrender will be demanded of Germany.

It was learned in French circles that the number of accused persons whose extradition would be demanded had been considerably reduced from the original total.

Whisky Valued at $30,000 Stolen.

MAYO SAYS MEN AT SEA RECEIVED TOO FEW HONORS

View Expressed in Testimony Before Senate Subcommittee Is Directly Opposite to That of Sims.

ASSERTS HE DID NOT PROTEST AT AWARDS

Secretary Within His Rights in Changing Decorations—Sims "Supposed to Be Under Him."

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Rear Admiral Henry T. Mayo, Commander in Chief of the United States fleet during the war, told the Senate Committee investigating naval awards today that his letter to Secretary Daniels Dec. 23, declaring that the Knight Board did not give sufficient consideration to service at sea, particularly to the duties and responsibilities of members of the staff of the Commander in Chief of the fleet, was not to be considered in any sense one of protest. He read the letter at the request of Chairman Hale.

Admiral Mayo took a view diametrically opposed to that expressed by Rear Admiral Sims, who told the subcommittee that the Knight Board, in granting awards, gave too little consideration to the records of officers who served on shore. The Navy Department made public Admiral Mayo's letter on the subject some days ago.

Sims' Charges Deferred.
The examination of Admiral Mayo began under the ruling made yesterday by the Senate Naval Committee that the present investigation should be confined entirely to the question of war decoration awards. Charges made by Admiral Sims that the Navy Department did not co-operate fully with the allies during the war being deferred for subsequent investigation.

Admiral Mayo said his letter was written after practically all of his recommendations had been changed and disapproved by the board of Secretary Daniels.

"I made very few recommendations for awards," he said, "mostly in the cases of members of my personal staff, for whom I was commander operating independently. In the case of Capt. O. P. Jackson, my chief of staff, I took a very conservative view and recommended no award. In view of other commanders recommending their chief aides for distinguished service medals, the board increased my recommendation to a distinguished service medal. But Secretary Daniels reduced it back to a navy cross. Capt. Jackson was the only member of my staff, I believe, who finally received an award at all."

Testifying that Admiral Sims was "supposed to be" under his command during the war, Admiral Mayo said that in order to facilitate matters Admiral Sims did not report to him, but directly to the Navy Department. Lack of a well defined policy for the award of naval honors may have had a bearing on the decoration situation, Admiral Mayo said, adding: "Both the board and the Secretary were acting within their rights and perspectives in changing recommendations for awards."

Board Had Right to Act.
"But don't you believe, Admiral, that the board and the Secretary should have consulted you before changing your recommendations?"

"No, I do not," replied the Admiral. "I do not believe it would have been practicable. It might have been desirable, however."

"Do not say I was satisfied with the result of the action of the board and the Secretary," added Admiral Mayo, "but I do say that they had the right to take such action as they wished and to assume the responsibility."

Chairman Hale said there was no record that Commander P. W. Foote, now personal aide to Secretary Daniels, had been recommended by any officer for a decoration, although the Secretary awarded him a distinguished service medal. Admiral Mayo replied that he had approved a recommendation by Admiral Gleaves, commanding the cruiser and transport force, that Foote be awarded a distinguished service medal.

Might Avoid Staff Duty.
Admiral Mayo said he had written Secretary Daniels because he felt there had not been a sufficient realization of the value of staff duty and that this might cause officers to avoid staff assignments.

"There has been a popular idea," he said, "that the chief function of the staff is to go along and look pretty when the 'old man' goes on a call. That is not true. They are hard-working, efficient men."

Senator Pittman, Democrat, Nevada, asked if Admiral Mayo believed there should be a policy that officers who lost their ships should be honored.

Such a policy would not be a good thing for the service, Admiral Mayo said, but added that in cases where the officer's conduct was heroic during and after the sinking, as in the case of Capt. Charles H. Davis, of the transport President Lincoln, it should entitle him to high distinction. Under ordinary circumstances, he added, an officer who lost his

"NEAREST PERFECT" MAN DENIED DIVORCE

Wife's Testimony Costs Him Decree—Says She Loves Him and Wants to Live With Him.

A divorce was denied to Benjamin H. Batte of 5143 Page boulevard, an insurance man, after Mrs. Batte took the witness stand today and told Judge Davis her husband was "as near perfect as a man can be."

Mrs. Batte said she still loved her husband and wanted to live with him. A few minutes before this Batte had testified that he had lost his love for his wife. They were married Jan. 10, 1914, and separated Oct. 29, 1918. Since the separation Batte has been paying his wife $140 a month for the support of herself and their 3-year-old daughter, Edna. The child was in court. She pleaded about on the witness stand and alternately went to her father and mother, apparently showing equal affection for them.

Batte testified that his wife was managing the household and not a good housekeeper and that she objected to his membership in the Home Guard, telling him he should guard his own home. He said she was going to his going to an officers' training camp.

Mrs. Batte was put on the stand by Batte's attorney. She denied all her husband's allegations.

JUDGE SAYS U. S. FLYERS WERE NOT KILLED BY MEXICANS

MEXICO, City, Jan. 20.—The American aviators Connelly and Waterhouse, who met death at Las Animas, Lower California, were not killed by Mexicans, according to the ruling of the Judge of the Primary Court of Claims at Ensenada, L. C., just received in the capital.

The Judge asserted they died from thirst and hunger, that no wounds were found on their bodies and that messages scrawled on the wings of their plane told of their slow death from exposure.

ship was, in all navies, court-martialed.

When Rear Admiral Mayo concluded his testimony, the committee adjourned until tomorrow. Major-General Barnett, Commander of the Marine Corps, will be called then.

The full Naval Committee also has authorized the appointment of another subcommittee to investigate the charges made by John R. Rath, editor of the Providence (R. I.) Journal that with the knowledge of Secretary Daniels "many seamen in the navy have been used for the most vile and unbecoming activities in order to entrap innocent men."

Chairman Butler of the House Naval Committee announced that Major-General Wood would be called before the committee to explain statements attributed to him that American naval vessels were "floating death traps." Gen. Wood explained last night that what he said was that naval ships manned by untrained men would be death traps in battle.

Admiral Sims yesterday differentiated between medals awarded by the United States Government for distinguished service to its own officers and decorations bestowed by foreign Governments upon American officers. The foreign decorations, he said, were to be viewed not in any person's light, but merely as courtesy to the country represented by the recipient of the honor.

"It don't make any difference how much of a 'dub' they think you are—some foreign King or Emperor will put a medal on you," said the Admiral. "In the old days, if you went to maneuvers in Germany you had to travel pretty rapidly if you wanted to escape a decoration."

"What was the order they hung on you, Admiral?" inquired Senator Pittman (Dem.) of Nevada.

The Admiral consulted his aid and then replied: "The G. M. C. of the Grand Cross of Honor, the First-Class Order of the Rising Sun, and at 4:30 this afternoon I've got to go down to the Belgian embassy to receive the highest order of Leopold. If I were all my decorations I'd bear down heavily to starb'd."

MARKED CARD EXPOSER SUED BY ALLEGED USER

Man Who Arranged Game Said to Have Borrowed $5000 From Him to Play.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—Broadway got another good laugh out of the "stud poker tournament" situation yesterday when it learned that John H. Mack of 225 Fifth avenue had been sued by Louis Krohnberg, the millionaire waist manufacturer, who was said to be the big winner in the high-playing games, for $5000.

"Sure, I borrowed $5000 from him," Mack admits. "But I don't consider I owe him the $5000, because he won a lot more than that from me previous to the time I got the loan."

The inside story of this loan, according to Mack, is as follows: Mack was the man who first suspected marked cards had been introduced into the game, and who took a pack of cards from one of the gamblers and had them pronounced "clean" by a professional gambler.

Then Mack arranged with Joseph M. Schenck, the film proprietor, to get up a game in which the dealer of the crooked deck should be exposed.

Borrowed Money to Play.
"But, look here, Joe," said Mack, "if I play in that game I'll probably be a loser, so I'm not going to play with my own money. I'll borrow a bankroll from Louis."

So Mack borrowed the $5000 and it was Krohnberg's own bankroll that he was betting against in the New Year's night game at the Schenck home, which Schenck, accused Krohnberg of having brought the marked cards into the pastime.

Broadway's smiles were increased by the fact that in this particular game Mack wasn't a loser, after all. When the session ended so suddenly he still had Krohnberg's $5000. Mack will contend in court that he is entitled to the money to offset some earlier losses.

The case will probably be the first to reach trial.

"Clean Up" in New England.
The White Way gossip to whom the stories of the big stud games are rich morsels heard a tale yesterday of how half a dozen small communities in New England were "cleaned up" by gamblers using "readers."

The gamblers first sent a man in the guise of a drug salesman to visit the pharmacists of these towns. He was to give them a list of "I've just picked up a swell bargain in playing cards," and would produce decks of high-class cards which he would offer for sale at a discount of the cost of the cards. The pharmacist usually would buy a few dozen, for they were real "readers."

A couple of weeks after the salesman's visit the gamblers would arrive, posing as traveling men with sports tendencies and would talk the "local blood" into arranging some game. "Then they would send to the drug store for cards, obtaining the very ones with which they had 'salted' the place, and then, naturally, would clean up the village talent."

ONLY ONE MAN OF 50 ON BOARD AMERICAN SHIP SAVED

Macona Was Driven on Rock in Gale; Wireless Message Was Broken Off.

By the Associated Press.
STOCKHOLM, Jan. 20.—Details of the wrecking of the American steamer Macona, which struck a rock off Midsjungen Light and foundered Saturday night with the loss of 49 members of the crew, were received today. The second mate, who was rescued hours later, from the rigging, was the only survivor. One report attributes the disaster to a floating mine.

The Macona ran aground at 1:30 a. m. Saturday near Midsjungen, and was driven on the treacherous rock during a furious gale. At that hour the Gothenburg radio station received the vessel's S O S and the message:

"We fill with water quickly." The station ordered life boats stationed at Batfjorden to go out, but 15 minutes later the Macona's wireless message was broken off.

"Unnecessary to send life boats." Life boats and pilots adhered to first orders, however, putting out to the distressed ship. Soon afterward the Macona's wireless again was picked up by Gothenburg, but suddenly ceased, and it is supposed she broke up at that moment. Several bodies have been washed ashore north of Varberg.

WAR TAX FORMS RECEIVED

Collector Has Blanks for Corporations Completing Contracts.

Internal Revenue Collector Moore has received from the Internal Revenue Commissioner at Washington a supply of forms 1120S, used by corporations having war contracts, completion of which was made during 1919, or who received final payments on such contracts during that year, and will make return for the purposes of the war excess profits tax. Provision for the computation on this tax is not made on the regular corporation form and those corporations in this district which have to consider returns from war contracts will apply to Collector Moore for this form.

The method of computation on this form is similar to the computation on the regular forms used for the year 1918, and provides for figuring excess profits at 20 and 65 per cent, war excess profits at 80 per cent of the net income in excess of $20,000 and adjusting the difference between the two.

TEACHERS' LAWYER AND MCDONALD TO CONFER

Attorney to Ask Board Head Today About Funds for Immediate Salary Increases.

Lon O. Hocker, attorney, who has been retained by the Grade Teachers' Association and High School Teachers' Association to investigate the finances of the Board of Education to ascertain if there are funds at the disposal of the board which can be diverted immediately to the teachers' payroll account, will confer this afternoon with Jesse McDonald, president of the board, and will make a report to the teachers Thursday afternoon at Central High School.

In view of the fact that the increased revenue from a higher tax rate, authorized at the special election Nov. 11 last, will not be available until January 1921, the teachers have instructed Hocker to see if there are not other funds from which the board can draw, as an emergency, in order to grant the teachers immediate financial relief to meet their increased costs.

McDonald's Statement.
President McDonald in a recent statement expressing regret that it would be impossible for the board to grant the teachers an increase effective before the expiration of the present school term, said that he hoped to find some means of increasing their salaries next September, at the beginning of the 1920-1921 school year.

Teachers also have suggested that the board might borrow money, for immediate salary increases, on the seven percent bonds under the increased tax collection.

Frank X. Hiemenz, a member of the board, who is an attorney, said today that the State laws governing the finances of the board expressly prohibit the borrowing of money for school purposes except by bond issue. Bonds, he said, can be issued for three purposes only—construction of school buildings, purchase of sites and purchase of equipment for schools.

No Authority to Borrow.
"The board has no authority to borrow money except as I have pointed out," he said, "and it has no authority to divert money from other funds to the teachers' payroll account. If the teachers could only be made to understand that it is absolutely impossible for the board to grant them an increase in salary, I believe this agitation for immediate increase would stop."

FORMER SURVEYOR OF PORT, 66, FATHER OF 10-POUND SON

Charles H. Smith, President of Interstate Stevedores Co., Received Congratulations.

A 10-pound boy arrived yesterday in the home of Charles H. Smith, president of the Interstate Stevedores Co., and father of the Surveyor of Port of St. Louis, 4490 A. Laclede avenue. Smith, who is 66 years old, received congratulations today from many business and political acquaintances.

Smith was a widower, with two sons and a married daughter, when he was married in July, 1912, to Miss Almee Berry of 2622 Louisiana avenue. Smith has for many years been a lieutenant of the late Richard Kereks, and his appointment to the surveyorship, in which he served two terms, was made by President McKinley. He later engaged in the lumber business, and the firm of which he is now the head is a freight auditing concern.

"Yes, I'm in business for myself and my own boss," said a young husband to an enquirer.

"How's that?" asked his wife.

Something of the early history of aviation was learned by an enumerator on Pershing avenue when a "bookworm" said:

"It may interest you to know that the first airplane was made by Albas Ben Farnas, an Arabian, in 783 A. D., and that he actually made a flight with this machine. I have been studying aviation with interest because my son was an aviator in France. Farnas died as a result of that flight, his machine crashing."

EXTENSION OF TOWER GROVE LINE REQUESTED IN PETITION

Property Owners of Lindenwood and Gratiot Districts Ask City to Grant Franchise.

An extension of the Tower Grove car line is desired by residents of the Lindenwood and Gratiot districts, more than 400 of whom met last night at the Longfellow School to discuss the matter. About 75 property owners signed a petition to the city to grant a franchise for such an extension. A petition to the company, signed by 600 persons, asking for the extension, was received some time ago.

The proposed extension would run west on Arsenal street from Fifty-ninth to Jamieson avenue, south on Jamieson to Marquette avenue, east of Marquette to Ivanhoe, and north on Ivanhoe to Arsenal. Many residents of this section have to walk more than a mile to the car line.

MRS. WALTER M'NAB MILLER ON PLATFORM COMMITTEE

St. Louis Woman One of 80 Named by Chairman Hays—Body Will Recommend G. O. P. Plans.

Mrs. Walter McNab Miller of 3729 Windsor place, for six years State chairman of the Missouri Equal Suffrage Association, has received notice of her selection by Chairman Hays of the Republican National Committee as a member of the Committee on Policies and Platform of the Republican party. Hays has named 80 men and women on the platform plank for the platform.

JOPLIN DEMOCRATS LINE UP AGAINST REED FOR DELEGATE

By the Associated Press.
JOPLIN, Mo., Jan. 20.—Democrats in Joplin have joined in the movement begun a week ago at a meeting of the Democratic League to elect one man to prevent Senator James A. Reed from being chosen a delegate at large from Missouri to the Democratic national convention. Frank H. Lee, member of the Democratic State Committee from the Fifteenth District, today announced his opposition to Reed.

The Fifteenth District probably will elect one man and one woman as delegates to the national convention. Former Judge Haywood Scott of Joplin is seeking to go as one of the delegates, and so far no opposition to him has developed.

First and Second Wives of Man Live in Same House

Census Enumerator Finds Them on Different Floors of Building, One Downstairs With Daughter; and All Friends.

A census enumerator found that P. L. Stoltz, a leather cutter, lives with his wife, Ethel, and her two children by a former marriage on the upper floor of the house at 7230 Ethel avenue, Richmond Heights. The lower floor is occupied by Stoltz's first wife and her daughter, who is married. The entrance to the two homes is by a common front door and hallway.

When a Post-Dispatch reporter visited the house the door was opened by the daughter of Stoltz's first wife, who called upstairs: "Ethel, here is a man who wants to know if you and your mother live in the same house."

"Tell him we certainly do," the reply came. "Tell him, too, we are both good-looking. What's strange about it?"

Mrs. Stoltz descended the stairs. "Not only do we live in the same house, but we are good friends," she continued. "If Mr. Stoltz and his first wife did not care for living costs, other any longer and decided to separate, and if I liked Mr. Stoltz and he liked me, and we got married, and his daughter decided to live in the same house with us and her mother decided to come along also because she always had lived with her daughter and if we are all good Montaneros regarding medicines and that all right? We don't quarrel!"

Neighbors said that the two families seemed to be on the best of terms.

Stoltz was married to his first wife on Jan. 18, 1898, and they separated on July 14, 1914. Stoltz obtained a divorce by default on Jan. 30, 1917. He married Ethel Smith on June 5, 1917. Ethel Smith married Stanley Marik on Aug. 6, 1907. She obtained a divorce from him by default May 28, 1917, and was given only five days elapsed between the time of her divorce from Marik and her marriage to Stoltz.

A Red Cross worker who was stationed for several months in Montenegro was discovered, a guest, in a home on Pershing avenue. He told of the queer ideas of the people of Montenegro regarding medicines and the treatment for wounds and diseases.

"Chewing tobacco, horsehair and fresh rabbit skin are a part of the medicine," he said. "These three remedies are used to relieve soreness. Common ink is believed by the people of that country to be the most efficacious remedy for burns and it has more use for this than for writing purposes. Cobwebs are a Montenegro, for they are used to stop bleeding."

Persons passing a residence on Gibson avenue, near Taylor avenue, last night, paused as they heard a young woman shouting questions through a door. She was a census enumerator. The purpose of the door several times a man's voice called from inside the house, "Who is it?" Upon being informed, he said:

"Well, my wife went to the movies with the children and absentmindedly or otherwise locked me in and took the key with her."

C. R. WOODWARD FREE TODAY, WITH CITIZENSHIP RESTORED

Term of Man Who Took $186,000 From Lead Company Expires Under Good Conduct Rule.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 20.—C. R. Woodward, who stole $186,000 from the Federal Lead Co. (Guggenheim interests) and later made a voluntary confession, repudiated efforts of friends to obtain his parole and came to the penitentiary, goes back to civil life, with the expiration of his term today, a free man, with his citizenship restored.

Woodward was given a two years sentence and his term expires today under the three-fourths rule for good behavior, and the customary pardon which restores his citizenship. Prison officials said Woodward never has asked any special favors, never has grumbled and has done the work of three men in the office during work hours. He will go to St. Louis and then to the home of his brother in Iowa.

LACK OF ORDERS CLOSES MINES

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Coal production was increased so rapidly recently that several mines in the western and northwestern fields have shut down for lack of orders, according to a report of the Geological Survey for the week ending Jan. 18, made public today.

There is no shortage of cars at the mines, Railroad Administration officials said, the only complaints received being for equipment to move export coal.

OTIS SKINNER WARMLY WELCOMED IN 'PIETRO'

Star Lives Up to Large Opportunities in Play Much Like His Former 'Antonio'

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—As if to remind us that the theater is not quite dying of anemia, that there are still actors who are heirs to the sweeping, grandiose manner and vibrant, florid speech which we associate with another and rather distant day, Otis Skinner turns his steps occasionally to Broadway, there to find awaiting him a welcome to match the warmth of his glowing and characteristic style. More's the pity that he who knows so well all the tricks of the actor's trade does not come oftener.

Mr. Skinner was at the Criterion last night again to act in the free, full-blooded and eloquent style that is inseparable from his figure. An Italian character, which might be a first cousin to his Mister Antonio of a few seasons ago, in "Pietro," a new play which any practiced eye could easily discern had been cut to his measure by Maud Skinner, his wife, and Jules Eckstein Goodman. First, last and always "Pietro" is an actor's play, which tells its story in terms of the theater rather than in strict accord with the probabilities of actual experience, though its audience found it not less engrossing on that account.

Two far separated phases were shown in its Italian hero's life. In the prologue you made his acquaintance as a friendless, overwhelmed and grasping foreigner, unable to grasp the full meaning of the words that a jury had just found him innocent of the circumstantial charges of having murdered his wife. Deceit from the galleys seemed to mean nothing to the bewildered victim whom the court had set free. His only thought was of his bambino who was now to be restored to him.

Eighteen years later the story is taken up in California, where his fame changed and the past supposedly buried, has risen to wealth and power. Angela, the bambino, has now grown to womanhood. The youth, a young artist, whom she is to marry, is the son of the District Attorney who had prosecuted her father at the murder trial of years before. The men meet at the home of the collector of Angela's birthday and there are instant recognitions. Then comes Pietro's wife—for those disappeared since he could not account for and whose murder he had been accused of—and the rich Italian's cup of bitterness overflows. The former District Attorney's objection that he will not permit his son to marry the daughter of a man on whose name better than an indelible stigma now no longer holds good. It becomes even less an argument when Pietro's wife reveals that her husband's prosecutor had known during the trial that he was guiltless of the crime. This revelation compels the woman wanders back into the mystery from which she suddenly emerged and Pietro is released from the life of concealment and deception which he had endured for his daughter's sake.

Opportunities Are Large.
A not too probable story. But it gives Mr. Skinner opportunities for those colorful moments which are the romantic loves—moments of picturesque contrasts, of passionate feelings of temperamental explosions of rage, of tenderness and delicate affection which Mr. Skinner knows better than any other of our star actors how to develop to their fullest value in the theater.

Although the star was always predominant in a story which might have moved with greater speed, there were others who helped to give interest to the play. Ruth Rose impersonated the daughter who, a sensitive spontaneity and warmth of feeling, O. B. Clarence was excellent in a well defined if slightly eccentric character of a gentle old portrait artist. Thurston Hawthorne, with difficulty in making the Nemesis of the story—the District Attorney—ring true, but the fault may be laid to the character rather than to the actor. Shaw as Pietro's unworthy wife, an Italian Mrs. Warren whose profession had been practiced in San Francisco, which may explain how Miss Shaw happened to act the role.

RECRUITING BEGUN FOR NEW MILITIA REGIMENT

A. L. Shapleigh Heads Committee in Campaign for National Guard Unit.

A campaign for the recruiting and financing of a new National Guard regiment has been undertaken by an executive committee of which A. L. Shapleigh is chairman, and which has headquarters in the Chamber of Commerce.

Since the return of the 138th Infantry, which was mustered out of service, and the disbandment of the First and Third Regiments of the Missouri Home Guard, St. Louis has been without an adequate body of militia. The attempt to reorganize the First and Fifth Regiments, which were merged into the 138th, has not succeeded, beyond the formation of a few companies of small strength.

In its appeal to business men, the committee says that the State of Missouri has practically no national guard at present. The purpose of the campaign is to rehabilitate the national guard units; furnish and equip the armories and lease or purchase a tract of land on the Meramec River for training purposes and providing recreation facilities.

Costs $300 a Year.

"It is necessary to support the national guard," the committee's letter says, "at an approximate cost of $300 a man, or a large standing army at a cost of $3000 a man. A national guardman is a producer 11½ months of the year—a member of the regular army is a consumer 12 months of the year. Therefore, it is proposed to raise a fund of $150,000, which will be used to further the reorganization and proper maintenance of the national guard in this city. Every manufacturer, merchant and financier is not only expected to subscribe, but to lend his moral support. The committee will have complete charge of the disbursement of this fund. Twenty per cent of the amount raised is to be given to the National Guard Association of the United States for national expenses.

"The United States Government furnishes all equipment, pays all expenses of camps, the encampment being approximately of 10 days' duration each year. The men are paid $1 for attendance at drills providing 65 per cent of the membership of each organization is present at any drill and every man must attend not less than 75 per cent of the drills a year. These drills are held weekly. The Government requires that the state or local communities provide and maintain adequate housing facilities (armories). The moral support of the community is just as necessary, if not more than the financial aid.

Employers Expected to Aid.
 "Employers are expected to encourage a proper proportion of their men to enlist, and to make no deduction from their pay for the annual two weeks' field training, or to count such time as in any way intruding upon their vacation allowances. These men when in camp do not play—they study and work hard. Members of the national guard are exempt from jury duty."

The different industries have been considered by the committee. It is stated, and the amount which each should contribute has been estimated. Checks are to be made payable to Clifford E. French, vice president of the First National Bank, treasurer of the committee. The members of the committee, besides the chairman, are J. D. Bascom, W. Palmer Clarkson, John L. Green, Jackson Johnson, R. K. Kaufman, H. J. Pettengill, John F. Queney and M. L. Wilkinson. George W. Coombes is secretary.

CITY TO PLEAD SATURDAY FOR RETURN TO 6-CENT FARE

City Counselor to Argue That Increase in Traffic Shows Old Rate Would Have Been Profitable.

The city's demand for a return to 6-cent car fare will be argued before Circuit Judge Shields Saturday, when the court will take up the application, filed by the City Counselor, for a writ of certiorari, to review the action of the State Public Service Commission in approving the 7 and 8-cent scale of fare.

City Counselor Daues said today that an endeavor would be made to plead the increase in traffic, under the increased fare, as proof that the increase was not needed, and that the traffic would have become profitable at the old rate. How far this plea can be introduced is not certain, as the argument must be limited to matter which came up in the original discussion before the Commission last fall. In that discussion, Manager Perkins of the United Railways argued that traffic would fall off under the increase, so that the revenue would not be proportional to that under the 6-cent fare. C. E. Smith, consulting engineer for the city, argued that, because of the city's growth, the traffic would increase anyway. Smith's argument has been sustained by developments, the City Counselor believes.

ROBBED OF $395 IN HIS STORE

Nathan Lachtermann, grocer, of 2744 Thomas street, told policemen yesterday that two men who had driven to his store in an automobile had held him up with revolvers, taking $395 which he had just counted out preparatory to taking to the bank at 2 p. m.

He said the money was on a counter and was wrapped in the paper. The robbers grabbed the bundle and escaped in their machine, making no effort to search him or the cash register.

The Frocks of 1920

Prove the Charm of Perfect Color and Fabric

PERFECT in their color contrast and perfect in their choice of lovely fabrics are the new Frocks announcing the Spring. An air of authenticity prevails in the Costume Salon. These first Frocks may be considered forerunners, but they are so fascinating, and possess so much charm and style, that one feels they are a positive forecast of the modes to come.

Afternoon and street Frocks rustle with the folds and puffs of their taffeta. Others prefer the long graceful lines of satin or meteor. Georgette in exquisite shades shows beadwork as its best trimming. Sports Dresses for the South are in contrasting colors and fabrics—such as a jersey skirt, jacketed with tricolette. The prices range from $39.75 to $225, with specially good choosing at $33.75 and $59.75.

At $39.75—

These are taffeta Frocks in navy, black, brown and taupe, with the very wide flare at the hips or long tunics quite full from under which peeps a narrow underskirt. Besides taffeta, some foulard Frocks in interesting figured patterns are attractive.

At $59.75—

Frocks of meteor crepe draped in harem styles are shown, also figured Georgettes in dark colors. These are excellent Frocks to have, they are appropriate at so many occasions. Meteor combined with Georgette is used in many Frocks. Extra sizes are shown in this group.

White Dresses for graduation are shown of Georgette, lace, net, crepe de chine, meteor and cotton voiles, priced, $19.75 to $75.

(Third Floor.)

Percal and Gingham Dresses

The Kind to Wear at Home

$2.98 and $3.98

A STATEMENT such as this cannot fail to bring a gleam of interest to the eyes of the woman who wears attractive, sensible Tub Dresses at home. These are Spring styles, too, so you may be sure of their new lines and trimmings. Just because we were fortunate we purchased them at a special price. That makes it possible for us to mark them at two very low prices, $2.98 and $3.98. The materials are gingham and French percale, in plaids, solid colors or pattern figures. Most of the Dresses have white collars and cuffs. Sizes 34 to 46.

New Silk Frocks

Chart the Way of Spring

Delightful piquancy is expressed in the charming new Silk Frocks and women seeking garments with a Springtime air will find them especially appealing.

Taffeta may well rustle in satisfaction for it is one of Fashion's favored fabrics, and there is a delectable array of sprightly taffeta affairs, presenting the trend of the Spring modes, for your choosing.

Spring Frocks of satin, too, have put in a charming appearance and vie with the Taffeta Frocks for special favor.

The youthful satin Frock sketched is simply fashioned and attractively adorned with beaded motifs.

Priced $58.50

The new models display quaint basque bodices, plaited ruffles, effectively used, and hips are most always bouffant.

Varied ornamentations are used—lacquered ribbons, embroidery and beads in gay colors.

Prices range from $48.50 to $195.00.

Beautiful Frocks and Gowns for California and Southern wear form a fascinating assemblage for the members of the fair sex who are anticipating a sojourn in sunny climes.

Great Savings Again Tomorrow in the Annual Sale of Girls' Washable Dresses

In the Basement Shop

$1.95, $2.95, $3.95 and $4.95

ON Monday morning at 9 o'clock we inaugurated one of the biggest events in Girls' Dresses that has been available for many months.

Washable Dresses for girls from 6 to 16 are offered in smart Spring styles and fabrics most attractive.

Enthusiastic approval is expressed on every side.

Mothers of small daughters have demonstrated their appreciation by their liberal purchasing of Dress needs for school as well as for better wear. A happy choice for the latter might be a velvet belted white pique, which is shown in two charming models. Other fabrics are gingham, rep, poplin, chambray and others of like durability.

Dresses
$1.95

This group is composed of gingham in plaids, checks or solid colors, in high-waist or belted models; some are smocked, others show touch of embroidery. A pretty Dress in this group is of blue or brown rep with stitching.

$1.95Dresses
$2.95

These Dresses are of gingham in plaids, checks or solid colors, in high-waist or belted models; some are smocked, others show touch of embroidery. A pretty Dress in this group is of blue or brown rep with stitching.

$2.95Dresses
$3.95

Particularly attractive is the new "Phyllis May" Play Dress. Very original is this Phyllis May Frock: neither a dress nor bloomers, but a cunning combination of both. May be had in pink, blue, checks, plaid gingham, with collar, cuffs and sash of white organdie.

$3.95Dresses
$4.95

White pique has been effectively employed in the making of dresses in this group. High waist and belted models; others with tunic effects, with collar and cuffs of white pique. A smart frock of white pique shows velvet belt of blue or rose, with collar, cuff and vest of lace-trimmed tulle. Also high-waisted styles, in white pique, with clever touch of colored embroidery.

A Splendid Opportunity for Real Saving—In This Pre-Inventory Clearance Sale of*Women's Winter Coats and Suits

EVERY garment in this event is highly desirable and only a reference to their price tags gives a hint of the fact that they are reduced—for they display beautiful fabrics and smart late-Winter modes. But to make space for Spring stocks prices on Winter Suits and Coats have been materially lowered, and the values one can select are surprising.

Coats Repriced for Clearance$30, $49, $59, $75

THE Coats in these four groups will answer your every requirement. They are developed of such desired fabrics as polo cloth, silvertone, Bolivia, tinseltone, wool velour, peach-bloom and mixtures of the very best quality. Their belted and semi-belted models display distinctive modes, featuring novel collar, cuffs and pocket effects.

Suits Repriced for Clearance$45.00 and $49.75

EXCELLENT tailoring and good fabrics are just as noteworthy features of these two groups of Winter Suits as are their modish designing and substantial reductions. Duvet de laine, velour and silvertone are the materials shown and the models are those of Midwinter. A large number of these Suits feature Hudson seal and sealine collars.

Union Suits.$2.55

GREAT interest has been shown in this unusual sale of Men's Union Suits, which we through fortunate purchase have been able to offer at price concessions most favorable to you.

Experienced shoppers have declared them to be of same quality as those shown in other shops at above quoted comparative prices.

There are in this showing, Union Suits of cotton and worsted mixed, and mercurized yarn, in all desired weights and sizes—white and color, rainbow mixed, heavy tucked ribbed, and many others that are equally good.

Every Union Suit is well made, insuring comfort and durability. Sample Suits will also be included in this sale, offering an average saving of 50 per cent.

For your convenience we have arranged tables in the Men's Furnishing Shop on the First Floor, where these Union Suits will be displayed.

MANY of the lines are broken, but in the sale all sizes and styles will be found. The condition of today's market makes these values more attractive than ordinarily, for not a pair could be replaced on our shelves at the price we ask in this event and to replace many would necessitate the outlay of about double the sale price, $8 a pair.

It therefore stands to reason that thrifty women can afford to buy Shoes for next season with full assurance that a substantial saving has been effected.

—The sale will include the most favored styles in —Patent leather Shoes with kid tops.
—Black Kid Shoes with brown cloth tops.
—Bronze Kid Shoes with bronze cloth tops.

—Brown Kid Shoes with cloth tops.
—Black Kid Shoes with black kid tops.

WOMEN WORKING TO GET VOTE BY NEXT ELECTION

Leaders Plan Campaign in States Needed to Bring Number Ratifying to 36.

By the Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Suffrage leaders at Washington are bending every effort to obtain ratification of the Federal suffrage amendment in time for women to vote, if not in the Presidential primaries, certainly in the fall elections of all States. As both parties claim the credit of having submitted the amendment to the States, so the chiefs of both are forwarding the movement for early ratification. Ratification by Indiana, the home State of Chairman Hayes of the Republican National Committee, last Friday, is indicative of Republican activity, while the Democrats have shown their interest by numerous appeals to State Legislatures.

Ten more State Legislatures must approve the amendment to raise the total to the necessary 36. In four States, Wyoming, New Mexico, Idaho and Arizona, special ratification sessions have been promised, leaving six States yet to respond to the demand for haste. Action by Washington, Nevada and Oklahoma, all of which are full suffrage States, and by West Virginia, where the Legislature is pledged to suffrage and the Governor has promised to call a session, would reduce the required number to two which must be won from among Delaware, New Jersey, Mississippi, Maryland, Vermont and Connecticut.

A setback was given the movement by the refusal of Governor Hart of Washington, while attending the recent Governor's conference here, to call a special session. Hart stood out against the appeals of party leaders, on the ground that the State had already exceeded its debt limit and that if a special session were called to ratify suffrage, other troublesome problems might arise. Heads of the National Women's party here contrasted his attitude with that of Gov. Campbell of Arizona, who promised that immediately upon his return home he would call a special ratification session for not later than Feb. 13.

Declaring that Hart's refusal to fall into line did not alter their conviction that all the full suffrage States would ratify, suffrage leaders said they would immediately start an intensive campaign in the State of Washington to induce him to change his mind.

REPUBLICANS SPECULATING ON QUESTION OF PARTY LEADER

Several Aspirants for Chairmanship Mentioned, While W. L. Cole Will Seek Re-election.

Announcement by Walter L. Cole of Union, chairman of the Republican State Committee, at the meeting of the Ninth District Republican Congressional committee at the Planters Hotel Thursday that he would ask re-election has resulted in considerable speculation among Republicans as to who will head the party in Missouri in the next campaign.

Although it is unusual for a State Committee Chairman to serve more than one term, the fact that under Cole's direction the Republicans carried the State for the more important offices in the off-year election of 1918 gives him an advantage, and so far there is no one actively seeking to prevent his re-election. The new chairman will be chosen by the new State Committeemen who will not be elected until the August primary.

For a time Frederick Essen, "boss of St. Louis County," was looked upon as an aspirant for the chairmanship, but Essen's chances vanished when Republican leaders were informed by several women active in Republican politics that he would not be satisfactory to the women.

It is usual for the nominee for United States Senator or Governor, or the two together, to pick the committee chairman. So far as is known Cole is satisfactory to Spencer, who won in the campaign directed by Cole in 1915, but it has been suggested by some Republicans that if E. E. McInnes, of Springfield, should get the nomination for Governor, he might prefer for chairman a man with whom he was in closer personal touch.

In this connection, Jesse A. Tolerton, a Springfield banker, who for many years was active in politics in Taney county and who was State Game Commissioner under Gov. Hadley, has been mentioned.

If Arthur M. Hyde of Trenton should win the nomination for Governor he would be expected to demand the selection of a chairman more closely identified with the progressive Republican wing than is Cole.

BABY SUCCUMBS TO BURNS

Pulled Pot of Boiling Grease From Stove Week Ago.

Robert E. Holt, 20-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Holt of 5972 Highland avenue, died at the Barnes Hospital last night from burns suffered Jan. 12, when the baby accidentally pulled a pot of boiling grease over its body from a stove in the kitchen of the home.

Police investigating the accident were told that the mother had placed a towel over the pot to keep the grease from splattering, and as the baby played near by it grasped the end of the towel, causing the pot to fall.

ENDS LIFE FOLLOWING THIRD ATTACK OF INFLUENZA

Continued attacks of influenza are believed to have caused the death of Richard Griffin, 29 years old, a brother of Park Superintendent Emmett Griffin of East St. Louis, who last night ended his life with a revolver bullet in his home at 1810 Ohio avenue. He served two years with the Twenty-third Engineers, much of which was in France. Soon after his return he suffered an attack of influenza, followed by a second attack. He again contracted the ailment a few days ago, and it was planned to take him to a specialist in St. Louis today. Members of the family who heard the shot, at 7:30 o'clock, found him dead. He recently received an offer of a position in Texas.

THREE MORE SAY THEY GOT DRUGS THROUGH DR. MANNING
Addicts Apply at City Hospital for Treatment, Making Total of 19 of His Customers.
Three more drug addicts who had been receiving prescriptions for narcotics from Dr. Thomas S. Manning before he was convicted and sentenced in the Federal Court last week for violating the Harrison anti-narcotic act, were received at the city hospital yesterday for treatment. This makes 19 of Manning's "patients" to apply since Friday morning. Drug addicts undergo severe pain when the drugs are withdrawn from them suddenly. Those who have applied said they were unable to get drugs any more, and wanted to take the cure.

Just Apply This Paste
And the Hairs Vanish
(Hairs to Beauty)
A safe, reliable home-treatment for the quick removal of superfluous hairs from your face or neck is as follows: Mix a stiff paste with some water and powdered delatone, apply to objectionable hairs and after 5 or 6 minutes wash off, wash the skin and the hairs will fall out. This simple treatment is safe and no pain or inconvenience attends its use, but to avoid disappointment be certain you get genuine delatone.

"BOARD WALK" FOR BENEFIT OF ENDOWMENT CAMPAIGNS

Promenade in Coliseum April 5 to 14 to Aid Smith and Bryn Mawr
Colleges and Mary Institute.
"Board Walk," reproducing the promenade of that name at Atlantic City, will be presented in the Coliseum, beginning Easter Monday,
April 5, and continuing until April 14, for the benefit of the joint endowment fund campaign for Smith College, Bryn Mawr College and Mary Institute.

The Smith alumni are working toward the raising of Missouri's $82,000 share of a $4,000,000 endowment fund, and the Bryn Mawr alumni are aiding toward the Missouri quota, $40,000, of a $2,000, 000 fund. The Mary Institute campaign is a part of the $2,000,000 campaign of Washington University. A campaign meeting will be held tomorrow at 10:30 a. m. at the home of Mrs. Charles Parsons Pettus, 33
Westmoreland place.

BOPP SAYS GAMBLING FIGHT IS AIMED AT HIM

"Political Ambition" Is Basis, He Writes Governor—"Raid Discredited Newspapers."

Sheriff Bopp of St. Louis County made public his reply to Gov. Garner's letter of last week, asking for information as to reports of gambling at Campbell's Forest Home, in Richmond Heights.

The whole proposition," the Sheriff wrote, "is turned in a hotbed of political ambition, entertained by those who are seeking to destroy me.
Any means will be resorted to, it seems, in order to attain this sinister end."

He then relates that he sent deputies to Campbell's and went there himself, but was never able to get any evidence sufficient to warrant arrests, with the possibility of including innocent men. He told of the "surprise entry" made by him at Campbell's last Wednesday night, when five men playing cards were arrested, and two tables were smashed, but says no gambling device or apparatus was found, although a thorough search was made, and that no indication of the sale of intoxicating liquor appeared. The raid, he said, "demonstrated the falsity" of newspaper reports regarding Campbell's.

These reports, the Sheriff said, were printed "spasmodically" by the St. Louis newspapers, but when asked to submit evidence to the grand jury, the papers refused to do so.

"I have been made a victim of voracious hunger for scandal and sensationalism," the Sheriff wrote,
"yet if it is for the great cause of righteousness, I am willing to submit to it."

The Sheriff announced today that,
by advice of Prosecuting Attorney Ralph, he had released the five men arrested at Campbell's from their bonds of $200 each. Ralph decided that no charge could be sustained against them. The Sheriff remarked that this showed the difficulty of getting evidence sufficient to convict in gambling cases. He said, however, that he would continue to keep deputies on guard at Campbell's and at the Cherokee Association, 7700 Gravois avenue, which he visited last Thursday night.

IMPLEMENT DEALERS OPEN ANNUAL CONVENTION HERE

Sessions in Mornings at Planters; Afternoons to Be Devoted to Visiting Plants.

The Mississippi Valley Implement
Dealers' Association opened its thirteenth annual convention at the Planters Hotel this morning. Sessions also will be held tomorrow and Thursday in the forenoon.
Afternoons will be devoted to visiting business houses and manufacturing plants. Members of the Vehicle and Hardware Association of St. Louis are the hosts. Chief interest will center about motorized farm machinery. The program today included reports by George Nies, Belleville, Ill., chairman of the board of directors, and Frank E. Goodwin, Kirkwood, secretary, and addresses by W. R. Root, Litchfield, Ill., president, and D. D. Lang of Sandstone, Minn.

During 1919 more than $30,000, 000 worth of implements, farm machinery, vehicles and heavy hardware was sold in St. Louis. The sale of tractors in Missouri alone from June, 1919, was double the amount sold since the innovation of the tractor as a necessity. This also included an increase in the sale of tractor-operated machinery such as plows, harrows, threshers, grinders and seeders. Motor or farm engines for supplanting the man or horse power for farm work were also greatly increased, as were milking machines and cream separators. This was particularly true of the Southern Mississippi Valley States.

MME. DORA DE PHILLIPS WINS AUDIENCE AT MUSICAL TEA

Operatic Singer Chooses Unusual Group of Songs, Which Are Well Rendered.

Mme. Dora de Phillips, well known for interpretation of operatic roles, attracted the central attraction at the last Hotel Statler musical tea yesterday afternoon. She completely won her audience, quite a large one, by the charm of her manner, and the exquisite taste with which she sang a varied and very unusual assortment of songs.

There were Gypsy songs of Bohemia, engaging French chansons, minuettes and pastourelles, several ultra modern Russian songs, several unfamiliar English songs, and even bits of music of the South Sea Islands.

A majority of the selections were sung in French, in which the singer exhibited a superb diction, and refreshingly clear enunciation. Her voice has broad range, and a quality of sweetness well adapted to character of most of her selections.

The assisting artist was James O'Connor, pianist, who delivered a difficult Debussy nocturne in creditable style. His other numbers were a prelude by Rachmaninoff (Opus 23, No. 3), and Moskowski's Spanish Caprice.

ONE DEAD, 7 HURT, IN WRECK

Engine and Six Cars of Pennsylvania Train Leave Track.

By the Associated Press.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Jan. 20.

One person was killed and seven injured at New Waterford, near here today, when Pittsburgh-Chicago train number 1007, on the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne & Chicago Railroad, left the track.

The heavy train, drawn by two locomotives, was making fast time when one of the engines left the rails, taking with it six cars.

CREME ELCAJA is the ideal treatment for your skin during the day. It is non-greasy—just a harmless cream that the hungry skin absorbs.

Just try this simple formula—

"A little CREME ELCAJA rubbed gently into the skin;
then if you need color, a very little Elcava rouge spread fully over the cheeks before the cream is quite dry; and after that the film of face

SALVEPhysician's Discovery
Gives Quick Relief

TWENTY-FIVE years ago
a physician in Pennsylvania succeeded, after long scientific experiments and professional practice, in discovering a combination of ingredients possessing remarkable healing and soothing properties.

It became famous in the town and nearby countryside. News of its efficacy spread to more distant points, so he gave the product a name, White Coverine Salve.

Throughout the United States it is now known,
used and highly recommended for Eczema, Piles, Ulcers, Tetter, Catarrh,
Burns, Chafing, Sore Throat, Cuts, Chapped
Hands and Lips, etc.

As an all-around household
"first-aid" for every member of the family there is nothing better.

Keep it on hand. Go to your

PRIZE HARVARD PLAY

A HIT IN NEW YORK

"Woman's Affairs" Keen, Polished, Smart, but Not Highbrow.

By Leased Wire From the New York
Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—The audience at the enlarged Little Theater last night did everything but "spell it out" for Harvard and Miss Rachel Barton Butler. The reason for this enthusiasm was the first presentation of "Mamma's Affairs," a new comedy by Miss Butler, which won the Oliver Morosco's $500 prize offered to students or former students in that institution of higher learning and husky football teams.

"Mamma's Affairs" is keen, polished and thoroughly entertaining.
Let it be said quickly that it is not highbrow. It is smart, however, smart to its fingertips, although the authoress has not failed to use several of the surefire methods of laugh-getting.

For instance, there are probably more "dams" than of the needless—in the piece than in any other high-class play on Broadway. Advantage is also taken of the trick of having a speech repeated frequently for humorous effect, and there is a bellyboy who says impertinent things.
But the real humor and interest of Miss Barton's play lie in the clever character drawing, the bright lines and the well-developed plot. The Mamma in the case is Mrs. Orrin, a widow, a hypochondriac of the worst type, who while nursing her imaginary "nerves" drives her 18-year-old daughter, Eve, into a real nervous breakdown. Eve is engaged to the effeminate, egotistical son of Mamma's lifelong friend, who belongs to Mamma's feline circle. The match has been arranged by the dotting mothers.

While this merry family party is traveling through the hills of Massachusetts, Mrs. Orrin sends for a physician to treat her cherished daughter.
This wise man of medicine sees that Mamma is not sick, but that daughter is. His treatment isolates Eve from her neurotic mother, developing her character and turns her attention from the irritable youth, whom she had never loved, to himself.

Morosco has provided an excellent cast for Miss Barton's first play. Elsie Shannon, as the complaining Mamma and George Leguere as the pallid suitor were so effective that one actually got irritated—not at the actors, but at the characters. Ida St. Leon as the heroine brought out forcefully the development in Eve's character. Robert Edeson typified the strength and honesty of the middle-aged physician. Amelia Bingham as the doctor's housekeeper and Katherine Kaefer as Mrs. Orrin's lifelong friend contributed good performances. Little Billy was a most impertinent and adorable bellyboy.

DRAMA AND GIRL SHOW
ON ORPHEUM PROGRAM

Regay's Dancers and Alleen Stanley's Syncopated Singing Are Bright Spots.

With a dramatic sketch of unusual merit and a tabloid musical comedy on this week's bill, the Orpheum encroaches on the province of the "regular theater," but the program is nicely balanced by several straight vaudeville acts. The sketch entitled "No Dressing" has a clever plot and affords an unusual opportunity for Miss Claire Vincent to show her remarkable qualities as an emotional and comedy actress. She has excellent support from Miss Helen Saxe, Frank H. Gardner and Walter R. Boss. The scenic setting of this act is one of the most beautiful seen at the Orpheum in several sessions.

The musical comedy offering is called "Not Yet, Marie." There isn't much plot, but it offers an excuse for exploiting the grace and beauty of a number of pretty girls in striking costumes.

John Regay and the Lorraine Sisters have a full stage dancing act that is out of the ordinary. The Ja-Da Trio of "peppy" young men in sailor uniforms put over a rather noisy act in hilarious style. Alleen Stanley, billed as "the girl with the personality," has all of that and unusual physical beauty and vocal charm. As a ragtime soloist she is a real star of vaudeville. Al Lyell and Carleton Mary are back with their senile sketch, "Old Cronies."
Karl Enmy and his performing dogs have an act to please the children, and Ergott's Lilliputians have a good acrobatic turn.

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—Andre Messinger's "Madame Chrysanthemum," a comic opera in four acts, based on Pierre Loti's story, was given its American premiere last night by the Chicago Grand Opera Company, with Tamaki Miura, the Japanese singer, in the title role.

her condition was not serious she was not yet out of danger."

$100,000 in Wine Thrown Away.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 20.—
Thirty-five thousand gallons of wine, valued at more than $100,000, was poured into the gutter here yesterday under the provisions of the prohibition law. The wine was the property of a winery which is to be condemned to manufacture soft drinks.

MISS ANGLIN THRILLS IN CURTAIN CLIMAXES

Emotional Heights Reached in Role of Wife, in "The Woman of Bronze."

By CARLOS F. HURD.

A WIFE of flesh and blood is the heroine of "The Woman of Bronze," as that role was played by Margaret Anglin at the American Theater last night. Metallic femininity would not have been equal to the emotional climaxes of this powerful drama, which are reached in a fashion more familiar to the stage of a dozen years ago than to that of today, and which twice brought down the curtain.

End of Act 1—The wife finds her husband and a girl her relative, avowing their love for each other.

End of Act 2—The wife, having pleaded in vain with the husband to abandon his plan of eloping with the girl, attacks the girl with a knife, then overcomes herself and flings the knife away.

No Happy Ending.

The end of act three is quiet enough. "I was glad she didn't take him back," said a burn-lipped matron in the audience, on the way out. Meaning, probably, that a sentimentally happy ending would have spoiled everything. And so it would.

These act-ends are the elemental matter of the play. There is plenty of artistic and social detail, which a dozen persons, besides the three principals of the triangle, are kept busy in supplying. The man is a sculptor, who has entered a million-dollar international competition for a war memorial, to be erected in Washington. The wife, engrossed in his success, plans for him a period of solitude and work upon the great task. At its outset, she is confronted by the situation created by the love between her husband and the girl, who has lived for a time in their household.

The model of the war memorial is complete, except for the face of the great feminine figure. Just what this figure means and must typify, the wife has told in a most striking recital. The face must express the suffering through which victory has come.

Destroys His Work.

The sculptor has not received the inspiration for this face. He does not find this inspiration through his new attachment. Instead, he reaches a stage of despair and revolution in which he smashes the whole work with his mallet. This incident, which occurs off-stage, suggests the book-burning episode in "The Gaiety of Paris." Yet the wrecking of a plaster model, which the audience has not seen, is less affecting than the breaking of the wife's heart, to which all have been witnesses. At the end, after his return, the sculptor finds in his wife's face the expression which would have made his work supreme. It is his punishment to know that he has placed in her heart the agony which her face has shown him—and that he has lost her.

Miss Anglin, as the wife, found high dramatic opportunities not only at the end of each of the first two acts, but in the middle of each. The first was her description, to a group of friends, of the plans for her husband's great work. In the second act, surrounded by some of the same friends, and interrupted frequently by their merriment, she tells, only to the ears of one faithful friend, the story of her experience of the night before, when she followed her husband and the girl to their meeting place. This recital was possibly the strongest thing in the play. It led naturally to the emotion, reaching frenzy at times, of the subsequent encounter with the husband and the girl rival.

Redemption in Work.

At the end she showed a motherly pity which softened the inevitable refusal. The calm of matured sorrow, in this scene, comes naturally after the devastating trial of the former episode. This wife was not engaged in any petty task of winning her husband away from a passing fancy. He had sinned against heaven and in her sight, and was no more worthy to be called her husband. She urges him to his work, which, we are left to hope, may be his redemption.

The husband's role was played with strength and fitness by Fred Eric Sydney Mather, as a rich man who is attracted by the young woman in the sculptor's household, was almost equally effective. Walter Connolly was very pleasing as the faithful friend, who is no mere house cat, but shows many courages on occasion. Langdon Bruce was as objectionable a poor relation as one could make the mistake of admitting to one's home. Nedda Harrigan played effectively the passionate, willful girl who throws herself at the head of the handsome and not unwilling artist. Harriet Sterling is the rich woman whose conversation is a trial, but who is kept talking for fear she will sing. When the subject of communism is touched upon, she declares she has been haunted by the idea of the butler, the chef and the chauffeur drawing lots for her. It is manifest that the short straw would win in such a contest, and one of the party suggests that she let the men servants do the worrying about this matter.

A cocktail incident in the first act will presently be out of date, but it is no time to censure the play on this ground, when the program in one's hand still contains bottled beer advertisements.

Last night's audience was large. The play, as has been told, is from the French of Henry Kistemaecker and Eugene Delard, having been adapted by Paul Kester to the present post-war period.

KEEP URIC ACID OUT OF JOINTS

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers Eat Less Meat and Take Salts.

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well-known authority. We are advised to dress warmly; keep the feet dry; avoid exposure; eat less meat, but drink plenty of good water. Rheumatism is a direct result of eating too much meat and other rich foods that produce uric acid which is absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate the uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of the impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which helps overcome uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.

A Simple Way to Remove Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have. You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

WOULD MAKE BASEMENT OF CHURCHES COMMUNITY CENTERS

Police Judge Would Have Social Halls, With Billiard Tables, Take Place of Saloon.
Church basements and church social halls, now seldom used, should become community centers, as substitutes for the saloon, Police Judge George E. Mix said yesterday to the Board of Religious Organizations, at Hotel Statler.

"It is not enough to take away the evil," he said. "You must put some constructive good in its place." He outlined a plan for placing billiard and pool tables and soft-drink counters in the social rooms of churches, which should be kept open every night in the week.

DESCHANEL'S ELECTION SAVES FRENCH POLICY

Clemenceau Victory Would Have Upset "Neutral President and Masterly Premier" System.

By the Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—The election of Paul Deschanel as President of France, means that the Chamber of Deputies is determined to preserve the traditional policy of France, which calls for a neutral figure in the presidential chair and a strong man as premier.

Election of Clemenceau would have been a complete reversal of this policy; inevitably he would have come into conflict with the Deputies in a struggle for mastery.

Opposition to the "Premier" was chief on this score. Clemenceau understood the situation, and when he saw that he could not be elected by a large majority, he withdrew from the fight. His action in so doing is not viewed here as an admission of defeat. On the contrary, it is believed that, if he had stayed in the fight, he might have won and established a new precedent to guide the republic. His probable course, had he won, would have been analogous to the King of England assuming the authority to direct national policy now vested in the Prime Minister.

Clemenceau's withdrawal is characterized by his admirers as one of the great acts of his life. They believe that he withdrew to private life a far greater historical figure than he would be after serving in the presidency.

Had Too Many Enemies.

Clemenceau, as the puller-down of cabinets, has made too many enemies to be the ideal President for France. Deschanel appears to fit the specifications admirably. He is described as a Liberal, but a "safe and sane" man. Though he has been long in the Chamber of Deputies, he has stirred up no bitter antagonisms. His experience in presiding over conflicting elements as President of the Chamber of Deputies, a position where he had to be neutral on public questions, is held to be an excellent qualification for his new post.

Deschanel is in many respects the very antithesis of Clemenceau. He has a faculty of not antagonizing people. Though not a popular hero, he is held in esteem by most Frenchmen, and is respected for his ability as a public servant.

Chamber Will Be Master.

With Deschanel as President, the Chamber of Deputies will be master. He can be relied upon to name the sort of Prime Minister that the Deputies want. What is happening now in France is parallel to the situation in this country. The Congress is beginning to take back to itself the authority that it surrendered to the executive during the war emergency.

It is too early to judge what will be the policy of the new French cabinet, but the view is authoritatively expressed that it will lean toward liberalism. This is indicated by the personnel thus far announced. Two of the members are of Socialistic bent, while the majority represent the "center" and "left center" of the Chamber. This "left center" is progressive in its views, but not radical. The cabinet is said to reflect pretty closely the result of the last French elections, waged on a law and order issue, at which the center and left center gained seats, the reactionaries stood still and the extreme left lost.

Like the new President, the cabinet is seen here as a sanely liberal body, neither reactionary nor markedly Socialistic. It takes its tone from the "left center."

M. Deschanel is noted for two peculiarities. Firstly, he has never consented to accept the portfolio of any ministry or form a ministry with himself as Premier.

Secondly, he has never accepted the decoration of the Legion of Honor. Now, when he enters office as President of the republic, he becomes automatically grand master of that order.

MAN BORN IN ST. CLAIR COUNTY WANTS TO BE NATURALIZED

William George Vogler, who applied for first citizenship papers at the Federal Building yesterday, apparently did not know St. Clair County, Ill., was in the United States.

"Were you born in Germany?" the examiner asked.

"No," he said, "in St. Clair County, across the river. A man told me I needed naturalization papers if I came from there."

Vogler exhibited a birth certificate showing he was born in Lenzburg, near Belleville. The certificate was in the German language.

CUTS BROTHER WITH HATCHET

Henry H. Dean yesterday caused the arrest of his brother Clarence N. Dean, who resides with him at 6800 Olive Street, road, University City, on a charge of felonious assault with a hatchet Sunday night. His head and ear were cut.

The brothers quarreled over the presence of a woman in the house at times, Henry alleging that his brother brought her there as a bad example for his son. Clarence declared the woman was merely a housekeeper who came at intervals to perform housework.

Easier Money Rates Cause Fair

By Leased Wire From the New York
Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"The foreign exchange market today was again far more interesting and significant than the stock market itself, where business was very dull. Movement of stock prices was for a time uncertain, but in the latter hours a gradual advance occurred in numerous industrial shares, which amounted to one or two points. There was nothing in the nature of an enthusiastic rally, however, and transactions were on a small scale right up to the closing. Railroad stocks were utterly neglected.

"Call loans were made at 7 per cent in the morning, but got down to 6 per cent in the later hours. "Russian paper money and internal bonds, on the other hand, were again influenced by the prospective opening of trade; the currency selling at 5 cents to the ruble, as against yesterday's 4.95, and 2 1/2 days before, while the internal 5 per cent bonds, which were quoted yesterday from $28 to $29 per 100 rubles, today got up to $47. These movements, largely based upon speculative transactions, are full of interest.

"It is significant to note in the case of our exchange with Canada, that the Canadian rate in New York remains at approximately 8 1/2 discount despite receipt of some $10,000,000 from the Dominion on recent shipments. When the first half of the year, however, the rate was at about 11 1/2 per cent, and the offerings of foreign currencies which were pressed against European currencies seemed to be no definite sign of other than the familiar accumulation of dollars and dollars of exporters and importers, which was more favorable to the price of the dollar than the price of the pound sterling at 167 yesterday.

"In some respects the most interesting movement in the day's financial markets was the further advance of the gold premium at London. Today's cables quoted fine gold at 111 shillings, 10 pence per ounce, which compares with 111 shillings, 3 pence since last Thursday, with 108 shillings, 9 pence a month ago, and with 99 shillings in October. Today's quotation represents a premium of about 3 1/2 per cent over the mint price.

"The statement in this column last week, that the price then ruling embodied a 40 per cent premium, was not accurate; it was based on the mint price for standard alloyed gold, whereas the London market quotations, formerly were made on the same basis of pure gold.

"Bearing on the same question, it is interesting to remark that the present open premium of 140, quoted by the cables, on gold in Portugal, compares with a premium of 17 quoted in July, 1914.

"On Wednesday the directors of the Gold and Rubber and Tire Trust for dividend on the common stock, and in view of the estimates of earnings for the year just announced, it is probable that the stock will advance in price.

Fleeting Glimpses of Approaching Spring Are Revealed in This Showing of

Charming New Frocks

—Presented in Two Groups, Offering Unusual Values at

$30 and $39.75

Like the brave Robin Redbreast, who makes his appearance on the threshold of Spring, so do these lovely Dresses, breathing the spirit of Springtime, appear ere Winter's snow and ice have melted. In these two groups, one will find Dresses that give a correct idea of the new style trend. There are dozens of models, fashioned of taffeta, Georgette, satin, crepe meteor, charmeuse and combinations in new colorings and cleverly applied trimmings. And of equal importance are the special prices, which represent values that are quite unusual.

A new model of satin for early Spring features a narrow skirt with gathered side corded panels that create the desired fullness at the hips. These panels are embroidered in floss and gold stitchings. The waist has panel back and tailored sleeves, with embroidered collar of Georgette. Price, $30.00.

A Georgette Frock is fashioned over a foundation of satin, with various colored yarns and beads. The bodice has a deep collar that practically forms a panel back. This, too, is embroidered. The girdle of satin, besides satin paniers, adds distinction. Price, $39.75. Third Floor

He shows how during the continuance of a strike it might become a crime punishable by 20 years' imprisonment or $20,000 fine to rent a hall to strikers or to send relief to starving women and children.

The plan to prohibit strikes in certain industries is bitterly opposed, though labor might benefit from it in certain instances. This is a far more serious proposal and nobody benefits from it except possibly officialdom and the particular party that may at a particular time be in power.

To oppose these questionable, un-American innovations is the urgent duty of all forward-looking citizens.

MAN AND THE WORM.

In no period of our history, unless, perhaps, in the revolutionary era, has there existed so widespread an instinctive feeling of revolt against the encroachments of the Government on private rights as in the present. Beginning during the war as a reaction against necessary coercive measures this sense of indignation has become cumulative as further restrictions have been devised for the regulation of our conduct in time of peace. Many view this condition with alarm, yet it is a wholesome sign, for, as Kant says, when a man has made a worm of himself, he cannot complain if he is trampled under foot.

In the remarkable monograph of Rudolph von Jhering on "The Struggle for Law"—now but hardly remembered—this sense of outrage felt by every man possessing the ideal view of law, upon witnessing the violation of right, is described as "moral pain," summoning him to fight against it—not so much to put an end to the feeling of pain as to preserve the health which is threatened by the passive bearing of it. And he adds:

No feeling, so far as I know, is able so suddenly, so radically, to make a change in man; for it is a demonstrated fact that it has the power to rouse the gentlest and most conciliating nature to passions and to passions that are entirely foreign to them; a fact which proves that they have been wounded in the noblest part of their being and touched in its most sensitive fiber.

Von Jhering recalls the historical and poetical figure of Michael Kohlhaas, who, having been subjected to studied injustice and having vainly exhausted all means of redress, exclaims with dramatic truth:

The man who refuses me the protection of the law will run to the condition of the savage of the forest and put a club in my hand to defend myself with.

To destroy the feeling of personal liberty in the peasant by means of taxes and services; to put the citizen under the guardianship of the police; to make permission to go on a journey dependent upon the granting of a passport, and the thought of the author on the approval of the censor, to impose taxes according to one's good will and pleasure—even a Machiavelli could have given no better recipe to extinguish all manly feeling of personal liberty in a people and to insure despotism an unrestricted conquest.

We are exhorted to fight for our rights when violated, for only by this struggle is the law which protects them renewed and preserved, whether in the field of local, national or international action. This is a duty to society, for:

From the moment that the law gives up its readiness to fight, it gives itself up; for the saying of the poet, that only he deserves liberty and life who has to conquer them for himself every day, is true of law also.

Whatever else the discontent in this country may reflect, it is clear proof that our citizens have not yet made worms of themselves.

A YOUNG MEN'S MOVEMENT.

Junior Chambers of Commerce represent a happy idea in provision for young men who are just entering on business responsibilities. They accustom young men to associated effort, give familiarity with discussions on important questions, cultivate public spirit, afford through a helpful apprenticeship a preparation for membership in the chief commercial and civic bodies of large industrial cities, the Senior Chambers of Commerce we should, perhaps, call them now since the remarkable development of the junior bodies. In short, the Junior Chambers of commerce provide an equipment for the future leaders of trade which, in view of modern methods, is almost as important as a training in the details and technique of the particular line of business selected for their careers.

With nearly 150 junior organizations with about 25,000 enthusiastic members already formed in the country, the St. Louis branch of the movement has planned a national federation of all junior bodies. The preliminary meeting will be held here this week, to which 27 cities located in 16 states have chosen delegates.

No other local chamber has had a greater success than that of St. Louis. An organization of national scope will at least mark an interesting stage in the movement and ought, by enlarging the scale of cooperation, to MEXICO'S PLIGHT.

From the Indianapolis News.

THE minds of the American people have been

1 so much concerned over the suffering in Europe—and rightly so—that they have failed to impressed by the misery in Mexico. The country has during the last week been visited by frightful earthquakes which have destroyed much property and thousands of lives. Volcanic eruptions have played their part. Several towns have been utterly obliterated, and in the village of Santo Domingo a child is reported to be the only survivor. The devastated region is said to cover an area extending 65 miles in one direction and 55 in the other. The earthquakes were, at last account, continuing. As if all this were not bad enough it is now reported—on what authority is not known—that there is a "Bad" movement in Mexico, largely inspired American who fled to that country to escape military service.

All of which suggests the possibility of co-operation with the Mexican Government and the corresponding agency in the work of relief, and in suppressing the Reds. If that Government and our people can find a common basis for action, there can be no doubt that good results will follow. We can be assured that the United States will do its utmost for the relief of the suffering people of Mexico as the result of war and brigandage, and now comes this new wave. Earthquakes, volcanoes and Bolsheviks are bringing new terror and death to a people that had already "sipped full term of horrors."

Of course, there can be no thought of making war on such a country at the present time. But the country, in the hands of the people, is a new world.

which relief can be extended. Perhaps out of the present suffering, and our helpful attitude, it may

TREASON AND SEDITION.

From the New York Herald.

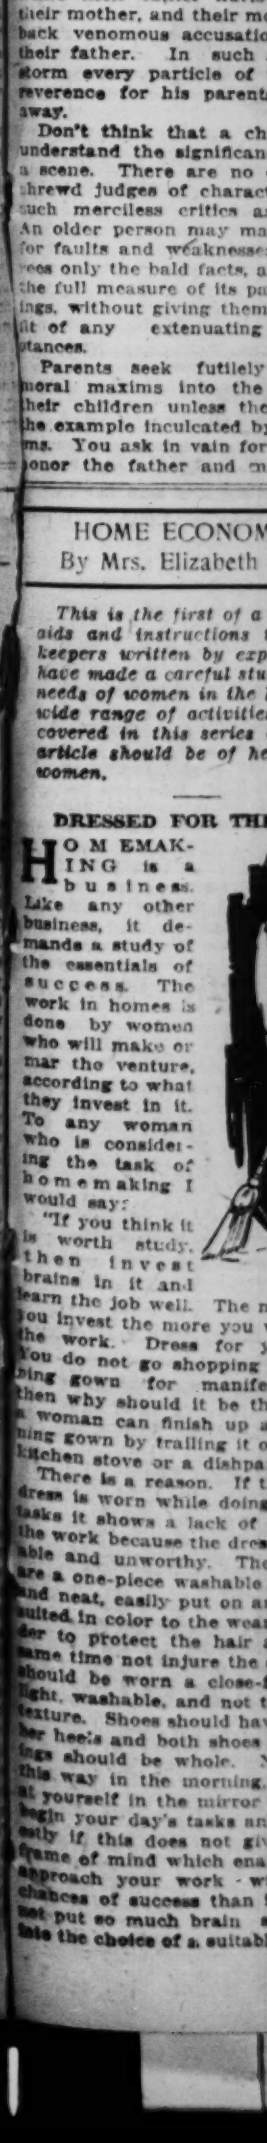

TREASON as defined in the Federal Constitution "consists only in levying war against them (the United States) or in adhering to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort." It is an overt act of betrayal, treachery or breach of allegiance or obedience. Sedition is language or conduct directed against public order and the tranquillity of the State: disorder or commotion not reaching the point of insurrection; also the stirring up of such disorder, tending toward treason, but lacking a

Takes Team Work in The Home Influence to Rear Children Properly

Most Important Factor in Development of Little Ones—May Be Powerful for Evil
as Well as Good.

It is a platitude to say that there is no other influence in the world so all powerful as home influence, and that we go through life bearing the mark that was stamped upon us in our plastic childhood. It is the importance of home influence that makes many of us believe that people who are unhappy, married, but who have children, should bear almost any wrong rather than break up a home and rear children from their natural environment, and deprive them of either a mother's or a father's love and guidance.

No one is so blind as not to perceive the baneful effect that divorce must inevitably have upon the children of a household, but few parents realize that scarcely less disastrous is the effect that a quarrelsome home has upon the children in it.

Testimony on this subject that should make all fathers and mothers in some very serious thinking has just been given by the Judge in a divorce Court who declares that he has found that almost invariably the children who go wrong are either the children of divorced parents or of parents who are always quarreling with each other.

He says that the evidence of these children shows that they lost respect for their fathers and mothers, because their parents had no self-control; that they were insidiously taught selfishness, because both father and mother were struggling to get the best of everything for himself or herself, and that they fought bitterly because they had been brought up in an atmosphere of strife.

No sensible person can doubt the justice of this Judge's conclusion. When a husband and wife have a spat at the breakfast table they are really enough to think that it concerns themselves alone, and that if they kill and make up the harm has been obliterated. Never was there more fatal error.

The real people concerned are the children who sit around, open-mouthed and wide-eyed, listening to their father's and mother's quarrel, and their mother's fling back venomous accusations against their father. In such a domestic storm every particle of the child's reverence for his parents is swept away.

Don't think that a child doesn't understand the significance of such a scene. There are no other such judges of character and no such merciless critics as children. An older person may make excuses for faults and weaknesses. A child sees only the bald facts, and it takes the full measure of its parent's failings without giving them the benefit of any extenuating circumstances.

Parents seek futilely to instill moral maxims into the minds of their children unless they first set an example inculcated by the maxims. You ask in vain for a child to honor the father and mother who are quarreling.

HOME ECONOMICS
By Mrs. Elizabeth Kent.

This is the first of a series of side and instructions to housewives written by experts who have made a careful study of the needs of women in the home. A wide range of activities will be covered in this series and each article should be of help to all women.

DRESSED FOR THE JOB.
FROM MAKING a business like any other business, it depends on a study of the essentials of success. The work in homes is done by women who make a career of the venture, according to what they invest in it.

By any woman considering the task of making a home making a job, she must first study. If you think it is a waste of time to study, when in a job, it is a waste of time to study. When in a job, it is a waste of time to study.

When in a job, it is a waste of time to study. When in a job, it is a waste of time to study. When in a job, it is a waste of time to study. When in a job, it is a waste of time to study.

Maxims of a Modern Maid

By Marguerite

THE most interesting thing in life to a man is his meals, and the second most interesting thing is his meals, and the third most interesting thing is his meals.

A woman wants a divorce from her husband because he will not "expand socially." And the hearts of many other women have been wrung by the same reason.

Once you yielded to temptation and Satan got you; now you are the victim of suppressed desires and the psychoanalysts get you!

A beautiful back is its own excuse for being bare. Every really good woman's hundred per cent thrill is her secret conviction that she "has it in her" to out-Salome the daughter of Herodias.

Changing one's mind may be listed among feminine prerogatives, but, like most of them, it is usurped by men often rather than it is used by women.

Sometimes a cat says "Meow!" and sometimes she asks why you've gone off so terribly since the last time she met you.

Uncommon Sense

By John Blake.

WHAT WILL YOU TELL THE CENSUS MAN NEXT TIME? You have probably told the census enumerator your occupation and position. In another 10 years he will be asked once more.

If you are between 20 and 30, the next 10 years will be the deciding years of your life. In them you can do or leave undone the work that may enable you to say "manager" where you now say "clerk" or "clerk" where you now say "manager."

Ten years, well employed, will give you advancement—if you are capable of advancement.

You know many men today who are doing important work for themselves and for the world who were poor and unknown the last time the census men appeared.

You know some men who are in exactly the same places—who are doing the same work—who are in exactly the same places—who are doing the same work—who are in exactly the same places.

Behold, Narcissus looked into the water; and the water said, "HOW beautiful you are!" But what Narcissus saw was his own reflection.

A man and a woman gaze deep into one another's eyes; and each says, "Ah! I have made a mistake." But what they see is each his OWN image, glorified and magnified. And they call this "love!"

As sugar in the soup, so is a damsel that saith "Bye-bye" over the telephone; but she that calls up during business hours, saying, "Guess you this is?" is as welcome as a bill collector at a party.

MAXWELL'S fingers were gathered together conclusively, and his teeth were clenched.

"And I let him go," he muttered. "I have my power, and I let him go."

"I admit," the other continued, "that to a certain extent I usurped your place. The hand which forced a pistol into his trembling fingers, and sent a bullet through his cowardly, fluttering heart should have been yours. Yet I had an account to settle with him."

"You can do your share now. You can lend me your horse and let me go free. Come! It is justice which I have dealt out. I am no murderer!"

Maxwell for a moment did not speak or move. Then he raised his eyes and looked the other man steadily in the face.

"What was your quarrel with him?" he asked.

There was a brief silence. Then the answer came slowly, but with fierce emphasis:

"My quarrel was your quarrel—or rather hers!"

A dull spot of color burned in Maxwell's cheeks. His eyes were very bright.

"Her quarrel," he repeated. "Her quarrel! Speak out, man! We have no time for riddles. Whose?"

"Your wife's!"

Then there was another silence, more eloquent than any words. Maxwell's fingers seemed locked around his riding whip. His breath was coming in quick little throbs.

He seemed about to strike the man who stood before him, calm, grave and earnest.

"I have no wife!" he said.

His companion shrugged his shoulders.

"On the contrary," he said, "one of the best and sweetest women God ever made bears your name, and is—your wife."

"It is a lie," Maxwell answered fiercely. "The woman whom I married is my wife no longer! She is dead."

But the other man shook his head. "The woman," he said, "who was thick-headed, obstinate mule as you are alive! Further, she is foolish enough to care for you still, notwithstanding your hateful and abominable mistrust of men and your idiotic pride."

Maxwell, a few minutes are all that I care to spare in this country. There is somebody moving down in the corridor corridor—I shall want your horse to get away as it is. Listen! Your wife is living in All-bad! Save for myself, she is alone and friendless. She permits me to call myself her friend, and am proud of it. No! I have brought you a message from her! She has sent you!

Maxwell's heel was ground into the turf, and his eyes were flashing. "Never!" he cried passionately.

There was a moment's silence. The man whose life was in danger, was gazing steadily at a moving speck in the open country. Was it his fancy or were those dark shadows, by the distant flash of yellow coats? One, two, three, four of them he counted. Yes, they were men, either soldiers or policemen, for the light was flashing on their bayoneted rifles.

He must delay no longer. There was no more time to lose. He turned sharply to Maxwell.

"You are a fool!" he cried. "As regards the past, I regard Maxie Dubois, I have sworn to her that I will defend her to the death. I am not her defender—God knows she needs none! Such women as she needs no champion. I will not break my promise to her, but I say this to you, as from man to man. If she were my wife, though the proofs against her were as black as night, and the whole world were cooking with steam to get her guilty, I would believe nothing except from her own lips."

"There was never any possible doubt," Maxwell began.

"Dubois!" The word, quivering with scorn, seemed about to bite the air. "Never mind. I have finished, thank God. I have said to you more than she would have had me say. You have your chance. Will you come to her?"

"No!"

The man's face was suddenly bright.

"You are the greatest fool that ever set foot on God's earth," he said. "But it is yourself who must pay the price for your own folly. Now listen to me! I have spoken fairly to you, I have almost pleaded to plead her cause, who is as far above you as one of God's angels. I loved your wife! She does not know it, and I dare not tell her. It was for love of her that I called Maxie Dubois, for love of her that I have said these things to you. Now, here's a warning to you. I'm going back to her, a new man. She's the woman I love, and I will have her!"

Maxwell started as though he had been struck. His face was dark with rage.

"You shall not!" he cried.

"It rests with you," was the swift answer. "In the country where she dwells the laws are merciful, and in time to come, if not today, she will gain her freedom. Why for her gives you no answer, and you may gain it. She carries your likeness next her heart. I have seen her look out towards the hills at dusk, and I have heard her murmur your name! She loves you! Today she is yours, you have your chance. Take it, or never dare to complain if the time comes when you find you have lost her forever."

And then there was another brief

The Sandman Story for Tonight

By MRS. F. A. WALKER

Mr. Young Dog.

MR. YOUNG DOG had been told by his mother, who was a good cat-catcher, that the one thing in his life worth while was to watch a rat hole and catch the rat.

But Mr. Young Dog was very fond of play and he did not want to work, and it was some time before his mother would trust him to hunt alone.

One morning she decided he must catch a rat all by himself or the mother would soon be tired of feeding him, so she found a hole in the barn floor where she was sure there was a rat living and told her son to sit near and catch the rat.

Mr. Young Dog sat down behind a barrel, but pretty soon a spider dangling over his head attracted his eye and he began to play with it.

When the spider drew fairly up to the top of the barrel, Mr. Young Dog discovered a ball on the floor and began to play with that, and as he rolled it around he saw something run across the floor and disappear into the hole his mother had told him to watch.

He looked around, to see if his mother was in sight and then he sat down right beside the hole.

"I'll get him this time," said Mr. Young Dog. "I'll get him this time."

But he did not watch long before he heard a noise outside, so he turned around to see what was going on, and down went his tail right over the hole in the floor.

Mr. Young Dog moved a little and down went the tip end of his tail into the hole and the next thing he knew something nipped his tail good and hard.

Mr. Young Dog yipped and jumped and ran for the door, and there he turned around to see what was behind him, and by the side of the hole sat Mr. Rat.

"Was that your tail?" he asked, sticking up his ears. "I thought it was a bit of rope."

Mr. Rat was back in his hole before Mr. Young Dog could get him, and then he knew what had happened, but though he sat there all day, not once did he see the tip of Mr. Rat's nose, and when his mother came and found he had not caught the rat he was sent to bed without his supper.

"All play and no work make a dog very lean," said his mother, and the sooner you learn the meaning of this Dogtown saying the better."

Mr. Young Dog was very sad and hungry, but the next day he understood the lesson, for he began to work and soon the barn was free from rats, and the master called him a good doggie.

had been found in the dead man's pocketbook. Maxie paid out the orange-colored envelope, and read it slowly.

"Deeply shocked to hear of Mr. Lee's death. We know nothing of his family or friends. Where when universal."

Maxwell changed his clothes, and ate a lonely dinner. It seemed that the dead man's half-cooked, half-criticized account of himself had been a true one. He was alone in the world. He had neither wife nor child to be horrified at the sudden and awful catastrophe.

Maxwell was far away enough now, at any rate. He thought of her for a moment almost tenderly. The thing had happened almost tenderly. In the evening he entered the room where the body of Vincent Lee had been carried. He was about to perform a task from which he shrank with a distaste for which he despised himself. The dead man's pocketbook and on the person of the dead man were there together on the table by his side.

CHAPTER XV.

"The Man From Nowhere."

As her voice momentarily ceased, the tension in the quiet room was so great as to be almost tangibly felt. Inured as he was to listening to the most poignant of disclosures, there was a quality in the girl's tones which stirred Terhune to the depths of his sensibility and he waited, tense in every nerve, for the climax.

Quimby himself seemed to forget the ignoble part he played in the drama and attended with undisguised interest, and as for McCarty, it was evident that only by a supreme effort could he curb his eagerness and restrain himself from interrupting forcibly and telling her story for her.

Marion faltered for an instant. "If you think I have dwelt too much on myself and my own trouble in the face of that terrible tragedy which happened so soon after it is because I am trying to tell you everything just as it happened and just as it impressed me."

"When I saw the girl standing there I was too agitated to observe details; she was dressed rather loudly, but her clothes were ordinary and cheap, and I thought she was just a servant like the other. You must realize my half-frenzied state of mind, for nothing else will explain my obedience to the blind impulse which came to me then."

"I walked up to her, and offered her a hundred dollars to change clothes with me!"

"I haven't the least idea what words I used, but I remember assuring her that I was not mad, or a fugitive from justice, but I must escape from some one who was following me. I drew the money—it had been left from the interrupted shopping expedition in the afternoon—from my gold purse, and held it out to her."

"She didn't notice it, but was staring at me as if she couldn't believe her ears. It didn't strike me then, but so much came back to my mind later when I thought it all over and over in these days, which have passed since that it must have unconsciously impressed itself upon me."

"She was desperately pale and carried herself in a hardened, defiant way. I know now that she must have been in fear, too, fear for her very life! I would surely have seen it then, but remember I was in a veritable panic myself. I did not even think it strange that she agreed so suddenly, my own problem filled my mind."

"Every word she uttered came back to me afterward."

"Well, if this isn't the limit," she said, with a queer little laugh, "I've listened to a few crazy propositions in my time, but nothing to beat that!"

"Then she stopped suddenly and stood thinking for a minute while I waited—waited for the sound of footsteps on those stairs behind me. At last she seized my arm."

"I'll take you up on that," she cried. "I don't know what your game is, and I don't care! I'll rather stand in your shoes than mine this night! Come in, quickly!"

She turned and put her key in the lock, and I realized only that she was going to help me. The reaction was so great I nearly broke down, but I managed to call up the very last vestige of my self-control. I scarcely noticed the apartment itself, except that it had a generally overcrowded, untidy air."

"I did observe, though, that the front door fastened with a spring lock on the inside, for she set it and also put the chain across, and into its sliding socket. Mr. Terhune, no one entered that door after us and no one could. Please remember that; it is important, and I can swear to it if necessary."

"You needn't be afraid any one will hear us," she said. "They are all out but me, and I'm going for good myself in an hour."

"She led me down the hall to a large corner room at the end, a sort of drawing room hideously vivid, with bright clashing colors everywhere. An archway led into a library at the left, the room where where it happened!"

Again a fit of trembling seized her, but she fought it back resolutely and continued:

"I remember there was a writing table all strewn with papers between the two windows, a piano in the corner and some bookcases against the wall. My strength was leaving me, and I sank down in the nearest chair."

"I guess we'd better have some noise after all," the other girl said. "Nobody would dare break in and stare anything if they thought a party was going on."

"She went to the piano and touched some electrical attachment and it commenced to play one of those riotous music-hall things. Every thump seemed to pound into my brain, and I could have screamed in anguish, but the girl turned to me briskly. I was still clutching the roll of bills in my hand."

"We've got to hustle," she said. "Put that money away, sister. I don't want it, and you're getting the worst of the bargain as far as the clothes go. I'll look swell landing in Chicago in that dress of yours."

"She led me into the bedroom back of the library. It had just one small window opening on an air-shaft, and was in great disorder. She was talking all the time in a nervous, high-pitched voice, and in spite of my own terror, I did think it strange that she kept looking over her shoulder into the library and hall as if she expected someone to appear suddenly in that empty place."

"She wanted to trade only our outer garments, but I insisted on a complete exchange. I can't explain why. I wanted to get out of myself absolutely, to thrust from me everything that connected me with that hideous experience of the past. She would not touch the few simple bits of jewelry I wore, however, and made me put them in my purse with the money."

"We were almost the same size, except that her shoes were too large for me, and when we had finished dressing she dragged me to the mirror."

"You're the fatter!" she said. "I could let you have something nicer, but my trunk went this morning, and you'd be lost in Leo's clothes."

"Her suit-case was sprawling open and her leather purse lay on top. She looked to see if she had put her ticket inside, and showed it to me. She told me who the people were she had been visiting, and said she was going out to join the show again. I didn't know quite what she meant, indeed it scarcely seemed to me that I was listening, yet I remembered every word."

"There was another strange thing, too, Mr. Terhune. She had a scar, just as I have, across her left side, only hers was fresh and seemed only lately healed. We had marked the coincidence when we were changing and she wanted to know what had happened to me; I told her I had been injured in an airplane fall and asked if hers, too, was the result of an accident. She glanced at me obliquely and laughed again in that queer, hard way."

"The only accident about it was that it didn't do for me," she said. "That's an old score checked up, sister!"

"I had noticed also some lovely fresh roses in a box on the bed and asked if she did not mean to take them. She shook her head."

"I don't feel much like pinning roses on myself tonight, and besides, you don't either," she picked up the card, and then threw it down again. "The poor boob! Thinks he's going to follow me out to Chicago, but I'm fighting shy of the serious stuff. I always give them the laugh when they start that!"

"She clattered on as she moved about, picking up her remaining things. I wanted to rush to Tony the instant I was dressed, but a strange lethargy held me. That awful piano was banging and ringing in my ears, and quite suddenly it seemed to die away, and the sound of her voice, too, and everything grew dark."

"The next thing I knew my face and neck were all wet and she stood over me rubbing my wrists."

"You'll be all right in a minute," she said. "You seemed over like a shot. I believe I know what's the matter with you. You're hungry."

"It was true. I didn't know it then, but she dragged me out to the kitchen, in spite of my protestations that every minute counted and I had to go. She made a sandwich for me, and I ate it ravenously. But, of course, I couldn't touch the whisky she had been drinking."

"There is a sort of freight and tradesman's elevator which opens directly in the kitchen in those apartments. It is the only possible entrance. Mr. Terhune, besides the front door, and she locked and fastened it as she had the other. I am convinced there could have been no one hiding in the apartment, for she told me she had looked all through it just before I came; she explained that she 'wasn't usually a fool, but she'd felt nervous as a cat that night, and kept thinking she heard things.'"

"I've taken a long while to tell you this, but I wanted to give you every little detail that I could remember. I could not have been with her for more than a half hour, for it was almost half-past 10 when I entered the building."

"She—her name, she had told me, by the way, was Ivy Collins—she began to question me, not in an unpleasant way, but curious, like a child. She said she had taken me for a high-class crook in a tight squeeze at first, but she knew from my talk I was a lady. I mentioned something about an elopement, and that I had been followed by people in a limousine, and begged her to open the door and let me go, as I had friends in the building who would help me now."

"Man friends!" she laughed, "or you wouldn't have had to get clothes from me. Never mind, sister, your secret's safe with me. Come on till I get my things and we'll go out together. You'd better take a flash out of the window, and show your little pail as still there in the car."

"I went back with her to the library and looked from the window; the limousine was across the street. I waited while she proceeded to the bedroom and picked up her suit case. I was standing by one end of the piano, between it and the archway leading to the drawing room. She had one glove half on, and handed me the suit case to hold while she stopped the piano and switched off the lights."

Marion's voice had commenced to falter again, and now another uncontrollable tremor shook her and she turned very white. Terhune sprang to his feet and hastily poured a glass of ice water from the silver-tankard on a stand, but she refused it."

"There isn't much more to tell, but it came so swiftly and was so confused that I don't know how to make you see it as I did. The last hour had passed in a sort of dream, and what followed in the next minute was like a frightful, distorted nightmare!"

"She started toward the piano attachment, but stopped as if a reminder of something had come to her, and walked over to the writing table. She was standing at one side of it before the opened window near the opposite wall when suddenly a man appeared in front of my eyes."

"There had not been a sound, he seemed to spring from nowhere! I tried to cry out, but my throat closed as if a hand gripped it. The man didn't even notice me, but for an instant he crouched, poised for a spring."

"It all happened, then, in a flash! She wheeled around, saw him, and seeing something from the desk, she raised it over her head, calling out in a low, hoarse sort of scream. He laughed, and leaped for her!"

"There was a queer, choking cry, a confused blur before my eyes, and—she wasn't there! Her body had hurtled over the low sill of the window almost instantaneously with his spring! He had not seemed to strike her a blow; it was as if with one mighty swing of his arms he had obliterated her from the face of the earth."

"It was an eternity before that horrible truth of her body striking the sidewalk came to my ears. He had stood poised and immovable after his leap, and when he heard the sound of her fall, he laughed again, softly but dreadfully. Then he turned and passed like a swift, noiseless shadow from the room."

Ralston wheat porridge makes him strong

Feeding youngsters is like feeding a fire—you have to pile in substantial fuel for their growing bodies to consume.

To be sturdy they must have the vital food elements of the whole wheat.

Ralston is wheat the way nature made it—golden brown color and delicious whole wheat flavor. Nothing added; no food value taken out.

Ralston is eaten in homes where mothers pride themselves on the way they bring up their children. Ralston contains the phosphorus and proteins of the whole wheat which are needed by anaemic children.

Swift & Company's 1919 Earnings

How They Affected You

During the twelve months ended November 1, 1919, (its fiscal year), Swift & Company transacted its large volume of business on the smallest margin of profit in its history.

Sales over $1,200,000,000.00

Net earnings $13,870,181.34

Our shipments were in excess of 5,500,000,000 lbs.

This means that our earnings were less than 1 1/2 cents on each dollar of sales, or a quarter of a cent on each pound shipped.

Consumer—

The average consumer eats about 1/2 lb. of meat per day—180 lbs. per year. If he purchased only Swift & Company products he would have contributed only 45 cents (180 lbs. @ 1/4 cent a pound)—a year profit to Swift & Company for its investment and service, less than one cent per week.

Our earnings were so small as to have practically no effect on the family meat bill.

Live Stock Raiser—

Swift & Company handled in 1919 over 16,000,000 head of live stock. You can figure for yourself that our earnings of 1 1/2 cents on each dollar of sales are too small to affect the price you received for your stock.

We paid all it was humanly possible to pay considering what the meat and by-products could be sold for.

Re: The Sherwin-Williams Company

In a paragraph in our advertisement which appeared in this newspaper December 4th, we unintentionally did an injustice to The Sherwin-Williams Company.

In that advertisement we offered for sale some equipment from The Sherwin-Williams Dye and Chemical Plants at Kensington, Ill. The wording was unfortunate and gave the impression in some quarters that the entire equipment was for sale and the plants were being dismantled.

The facts are that some of the abandoned equipment was being offered for sale to make room for newer and larger installations to take care of the rapidly expanding Dye and Chemical business of The Sherwin-Williams Company, who are one of the first American firms to enter this field and are now one of the very largest in the Dye and Chemical Industry.

It is a matter of keen regret to us that the wording of this paragraph should have created a wrong impression.

New Hair Growth After BALDNESS

HAIR GROWN ON MR. BRITTAIN'S BALD HEAD BY INDIANS' MYSTERIOUS HAIR GROWER

"My head at the top and back was absolutely bald. The scalp was itching, and I was told that the hair roots were dead, and there was no hope of my ever having a new hair growth. Yet now, at an age over 60, I have a luxuriant growth of soft, strong, lustrous hair!"

Indians' Secret of Hair Growth

At a time when I had become discouraged at trying various hair lotions, tonics, specialists' treatments, etc., I came across, in my travels, a Cherokee Indian "medicine man" who had an elixir that he asserted would grow my hair. Although I had but little faith, I gave it a trial. To my amazement a light fast soon appeared. It developed, day by day, into a healthy growth, and ere long my hair was as profuse as in my youthful days."

How YOU May Grow YOUR Hair

My honest belief is that hair roots rarely die even when the hair falls out through dandruff, fever, excessive dryness or other disorders. I have been told by experts that often when hair falls out the roots are embedded within the scalp, covered by hard skin, so that they remain for a time like seeds in a bottle which will grow when fertilized. Shampoo (which contains alkali) and hair lotions which contain alcohol are enemies to the hair, as they dry it, making it brittle. Kotalko contains the elements of nature which give new vitality to the scalp and hair."

Garrison Refuses to Box Daly, Picks an Opponent and Slaps Him Down.

Rialto A. C. Results.

MAIN EVENT—Tommy Teague, Muncie, Ind., vs. Orby Jolly, St. Louis, 8 rounds, 135 pounds. Teague the winner on points.

SEMIWINDUP—"One-Round" Garrison, St. Louis, vs. Fred Stamm, St. Louis, 135 pounds. Stamm quit in first round.

PRELIMINARY—Bert Adams, St. Louis, vs. Harry Gerber, St. Louis, 135 pounds. Adams won on a technical knockout, when Gerber suffered a broken nose and was unable to come up for second round.

CURTAIN RAISER—Kid Yellow defeated Eddie Jones in final of battle royal.

Being, enjoying its best local season in many years, received a black eye last night at the Rialto. A. C. show at the Armory. It came in the bout in which "One-Round" Garrison took part. First of all, Garrison, after accepting terms to battle Cyclone Tommy Daly, refused to go on stating that Daly was too light.

At least that was the announcement from the ring when Daly was introduced.

Fred Stamm, who claims a victory over Carl Morris' brother and says he fought at Camp Funston, was trotted into the ring. He said he was not Kid White, who originally was booked to oppose Garrison.

When the heavy got into action, Stamm went into a shell. He covered his head with both hands and made no attempt to hit. Garrison slapped him on the back four times and down he went. Randall refused to count, but went over and kicked Stamm in the ribs and threw a bottle of water over him. Stamm, however, refused to continue.

With 700 or more spectators yelling, "Bring on Daly," "Duke" Sheehan, one of Garrison's managers, grabbed his protégé and ran into the ring, saying: "We want Heitzlerroeder." But when Heitzler, who fights under the name of Jack Kerry, entered the ring, threw off his coat and had Garrison made a hurried departure.

Daly to Claim a Share.

Following the bout, Roger Cornell stated that neither Garrison nor Stamm would receive a cent, but that the money would be turned over to charity.

Daly said after the contest that he would claim a share, inasmuch as the club used his name for advertising and that he was on hand, ready to go on as scheduled.

Tommy Teague, a lightweight from Muncie, Ind., proved the star of the card. In fact, he saved the evening. Teague went against Orby Jolly, the iron-jawed local boy, and literally cut his opponent to pieces. Teague exhibited a great left jab, a good right cross and a one-two punch that drove Jolly to land. Teague covered well, but did it in such a way that he was always in position to land.

Jolly's gameness and his iron jaw kept him in the ring. During the entire contest, Jolly landed only two really clean blows, one in the third and the other in the eighth. However, Jolly's gameness surprised even Teague, who expected his rival to drop on numbers.

The Muncie brawler had an advantage in reach and he played it to the limit. To help along he would jab with his left shoulder. This would enable him to pepper Jolly while he himself was out of the danger zone. At the close of the first round, Teague landed 11 straight blows on Jolly's face without a return. All the others were the same.

In the preliminary, Bert Adams broke Harry Gerber's nose with a right cross in the opening round and the latter was unable to come up for the second.

Kid Yellow, introduced as Charles Lam, won the battle royal, defeating Kid Johnny Jones, who was introduced as August Busch. Six negroes participated.

JOE MANDELL, BANTAM OF ROCKFORD, ISSUES CHALLENGE TO ASHER

Joe Mandell, bantamweight boxer of Rockford, Ill., who was slugged by Frankie Mason at Camp Grant, Jan. 7, arrived in St. Louis yesterday and issued a challenge to "Babe" Asher and other boxers ranging from 107 to 114 pounds. Joe was accompanied by his brother, Samy Mandell, also a bantamweight, and their manager Merle Collins, who used the name of "Young Kilrain" when in the professional ring.

ENGLISH PROMOTER TO SAIL NEXT SATURDAY

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—C. B. Cochran, the English boxing promoter, announced last night the receipt of a cable message from St. Descaup, manager of George Carpentier, in support of his claim that he is the only one who can stage a world's championship bout. Cochran said he had paid $25,000 to Descaup for the French title holder's services this year. The message read: "Awaiting your decision. Have entertained no other offers whatever. Will not do so until released by you." Cochran, who will sail here next Saturday, intimated he would hold the bout in England if he can sign up Jack Dempsey.

Tigers Trying to Arrange Football Game With St. L. U.

Demand by St. Louis Alumni of Missouri University That Columbia Eleven Play One Game Here Annually May Bring About Resumption of Athletic Relations.

By John E. Wray.

ST. LOUIS may see Missouri University's football eleven here annually, instead of every other year, if plans now being discussed by St. Louis University and the Columbia school authorities fructify. Conferences in which terms and dates were discussed have been held by the athletic heads of the two institutions, but no announcement as to the result has been made.

Director of Athletics Meanwhile of Missouri and Father Hermanns of St. Louis University talked over the prospect during the visit here last week of the Tiger basketball team. It was said afterwards that plans were still under discussion.

Missouri was holding open an October date for a "Big Ten" game, but was turned down. It has been considering a date with the Oklahoma Aggies.

Desires of the Missouri authorities to resume relations with St. Louis University is the first expression of the kind in a decade. Since the last friction occurred, St. Louis U. has lived up to the Valley rules, although under no obligation to do so.

A Missouri alumnus explained to the Post-Dispatch that the desire of Missouri to obtain a game here was due to the insistence of the local body of Missouri Alumni that the Tigers play at least one game in St. Louis each year. Their demand was that the Washington contest be held annually in St. Louis. Missouri was said to be unwilling to set this precedent, as Kansas might make a similar demand, namely, that the Tigers annually play at Lawrence, which is near Kansas City.

He added that the present proposition would place both St. Louis U. and Missouri on the Tiger schedule alternately from season to season.

A Step Backward.

LAST night's show at the Armory was a blow at the new-found dignity of the boxing game. It was a step backward toward pre-historic conditions that once crippled the pastime here so badly it almost perished.

The ancient and obsolete "battle royal" between negroes, always a deplorable event to boxing lovers, opened the program. Next came a match that ended with a knockout in the second round, due to bad match-making. Then followed a fiasco in which two ham fighters were put on in the semi-windup.

What is considered one of the most effective means of preventing this decay of the great university pastime is the rule recently passed depriving of their previously earned "letters" all university men who play professionally. A decision to ban such players from recognition as coaches is also on record. Other means to deter recreant amateurs will be discovered, doubtless. With the source of supply closed, the "pro" teams will expire for lack of material.

COL. HUSTON SAYS CASE AGAINST PRES. JOHNSON WILL NOT BE DROPPED

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—Col. Huston, part owner of the New York Yankees, returned from a short vacation at Dover, Del., yesterday in the same warlike mood in which he went away. In discussing the question along baseball's Potomac, he said:

"There is absolutely no significance in the momentary lull of legal proceedings. They are simply taking their course and moving slowly, as legal proceedings usually do."

"Our feelings, so far as President Johnson is concerned, have not changed, and we propose to push our case against him as hard and as far as possible."

"Rumors that this quietness indicated that the three so-called insurgent clubs were beaten and seeking a way out are without foundation."

Johnson Returns Home.

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—President Bach Johnson of the American League returned last night from a hunting trip to Louisiana, where with President Haydon of the National League he drafted the major league schedules for the 1920 season. The schedules will be presented for adoption at the joint meeting of the American and National League club owners here next month.

Purple Beats Gophers.

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—Northernwestern defeated Minnesota, 28 to 24, in a conference game last night. It was necessary to play an extra five minutes to decide the winner.

Robbers Meet St. Louis Hockey Team Tonight in Third Series Game

The Robbers and St. Louis Hockey Clubs will meet in the third game of their hockey series at the Winter Garden tonight, starting at 8 o'clock. It will be the first tilt between the pair in three weeks. In the last two played, the Robbers were returned the winners. The "Robbers" are: Pos. St. L. Hockey Club. Off. Goal. O'Brien. Def. Cover point. Forshaw. Def. Point guard. White. Def. Center. Kimball. Def. Left wing. Stanhope. Def. Right wing. Kimball.

Busy Week for Billikens.

This will be a busy week for the St. Louis University team. The Billikens meet the Concordia Seminary quint tomorrow night, while on Friday they travel to Cape Girardeau for a two-day session with the Cape Normal. Coach Fisher's men got off to a good start, last Saturday night, by making a victory from the Illinois College team.

Lewis Defeats Linow.

WICHITA, Kan., Jan. 20.—Ed "Strangler" Lewis defeated Ivan Linow in a wrestling match here last night. Lewis obtained the first fall in 1 hour and 27 minutes by a headlock. Linow was injured so badly he was unable to return to the ring.

RAIN AGAIN PREVENTS DAVIS CUP NET PLAY

SYDNEY, Australia, Jan. 20.—After A. R. F. Kingscote of Great Britain and Gerald Patterson of Australia had each won a game in the first set of the singles contest in the tennis tournament for the Davis Cup here today, rain fell so heavily that the match was postponed until tomorrow.

Kenrick to Meet W. M. A. Five

Kenrick High School's strong basketball team has two important games scheduled for this week. The quintet, which is a strong contender for the district high-school championship, will meet the Western Military Academy five at the local school's gymnasium at 4 p. m. tomorrow, and Saturday night the locals will journey to Alton to play the Alton High School quintet.

Change in Standings.

Through an error in the results of the Holy Name Ball League, two weeks ago, the standings have been carried incorrectly. In the corrected standings the Holy Name and Lawrence are tied for first place with 2-0; Rock Church and All Saints have 1-1, and Bob Whites and St. Michaels have 0-2.

Harney Heights Girls Win.

In last night's play of the Girls' Municipal Basketball League, the Harney Heights team defeated the May Girls, 6 to 2, and the Glasgow Girls won from the Trinity M. E., 14 to 2.

SEATTLE, Wash., Jan. 20.—Young Hector, light heavyweight, of Bremerton, won a decision over Jim Flynn of Pueblo, Colo., in a rubber of the headline event of an American Legion smoker given here last night in honor of Gen. Pershing.

Dates Picked for Challenge Races For America Cup

First Contest Will Be Held July 15 Over Course Off Sandy Hook.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—All the details for the America Cup races next summer have been called there. The first contest will be held on Thursday, July 15, and the course will be the old one, from Ambrose light vessel off Sandy Hook.

All the races will be sailed there. The second has been scheduled for Saturday, July 17, and the third for Tuesday, July 20. It will be best three races out of five, and if subsequent contests are necessary they will be held on the following Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

These details are the result of the negotiations that have been carried on between the Royal Ulster Yacht Club, which is the challenger, and Thomas Lipton, and the Cup Committee of the New York Yacht Club. The formal acceptance of the challenge is expected to be sent in a day or two.

MUNICIPAL BASKET BALL CHAMPIONS TO MAKE TRIP

Redwine Abeken, Superintendent of Recreation, announced today that the winners of the municipal basketball championship would be sent on a trip to the National A. A. U. title meet next spring, or to Kansas City for a series. In an effort to raise funds, to make possible the trip, an admission fee of 25 cents will be charged to the games at the Washington University gymnasium tonight.

The clashes tonight are in the open division. The Alpen Braus oppose the Weekes in the first tilt at 8 o'clock, with the Japris tackling the Y. M. C. A. in the second. The last meeting between the latter two teams was in a three-point victory for the Japris.

The Japris, coached by Paddy Fitzgerald, are at present leading with three straight victories. Charley Reber is down to referee both clashes tonight.

DETROIT CLUB MAKES A $6000 BID FOR BARNES

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 20.—A $6000 annual salary offer has been made to Golfer Jim Barnes, new instructor at Sunset Hill Club, St. Louis, to become professional at Brooklands Golf Club of Detroit. The offer was made by wire to Barnes, who is now visiting in Texas.

With Barnes here Detroit would have three of the leading golf professionals in the country. Walter Hagen, the national open champion, has his home here, and his old pal, Mike Brady, is "pro" at the Oakland Hills Golf Club.

Barnes recently reached an agreement with the St. Louis Country Club to remain here another year, with leave of absence to go to Europe for the British open. His earnings here last year were said to have reached $10,000.

LONGWOOD CLUB OPPOSES TENNIS RULE CHANGES

Boston, Jan. 20.—The Longwood Cricket club, one of the oldest tennis clubs in the country, is opposed to changing the rules and terms of tennis. It would keep the scoring terms "deuce" and "love" because they have gained dignity through long use and tradition and other changes in scoring and in rules as proposed by a committee of the United States National Lawn Tennis Association are not favored. The club at its annual session tonight will probably adopt the committee's report at the forthcoming annual meeting of the National Association.

BROWNS SEND BRONKIE TO INDIANAPOLIS CLUB

Business Manager Bob Quinn of the Browns announced today that he had released infielder Herman Bronkie to the Indianapolis club of the American Association. The Hoosiers are in the city and the deal was completed this morning. Bronkie will probably play third base for Hendricks.

Look Who's Here!

HOW dear to my heart is the old fashioned today, When fond recollection presents it to view;

It mellowed the heart and put jazz in the body, And formed the foundation for many a stew.

But since it's a cinch that we'll get of yore, The old oaken bucket is pulling a come back.

And open business once more at the well. The old oaken bucket, the moss covered bucket, The iron bound bucket which hung in the well.

At the old oaken bucket no longer we'll snicker And turn up our nose as per habits of yore;

We'll drink up our stock of expensive red liquor Then back to the old oaken bucket once more.

We thought is so leaky, moss-covered and rotten That ages ago into pieces it fell, But the old oaken bucket we all had forgotten.

Is open for business once more at the well. The old oaken bucket, the moss covered bucket, Is open for business once more at the well.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

The old oaken bucket is now batting for the growler.

Rhode Island is going to fight prohibition in the Supreme Court. Sic 'em, Rhody!

Rhode Island may be only a flyweight but she's got an awful kick.

Four per cent beer isn't intoxicating in Rhode Island. If you see two capitalists there you're all right. She has 'em.

A GAME BIRD.

You might lose Rhode Island in one of the counties of Texas but you can't lose her in the pursuit of life, liberty and the free and unlimited coinage of the stuff which makes Milwaukee and Kentucky famous.

NEW YORK BOXING Bill Introduced; Has Good Chance

Referee Must Render a Decision After Each Bout; 12 Rounds Is Maximum.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 20.—A boxing bill which Republican leaders say stands a good chance, was introduced last night by Assemblyman Harvey J. Ross of Brooklyn. The bill creates a State Athletic Commission of three members, to be appointed by the Governor. They are to hold office until Dec. 31, 1920, when their successors are to be appointed for two years.

Each commissioner is to have $5000 a year salary. There are to be four deputies, each of whom will receive $25 a day and necessary expenses while actually engaged on business for the commission.

The commissioner is to have sole control of all boxing matches given by any club, association or individual where an admission is charged, except amateur contests. All clubs are to be licensed.

No boxing match shall exceed 12 1/2-minute rounds. The officials are to be a referee, a time keeper and a medical officer, all to be chosen by the commission.

No contestant under 18 years of age shall be allowed to participate, and no boxers are to be allowed to take part in more than 12 rounds of boxing in 72 hours. No club can give more than 36 rounds in 24 hours.

Each club will be required to file with the commission a report of medical examinations within 24 hours after each contest.

ROBINS PROTEST AGAINST MORSE TEAM IS ALLOWED

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—The Robins Dry Dock Football Club of Brooklyn has protested its only defeat of the season in 18 games played, and has won the protest. This was the game the Morse Dry Dock eleven won on Morse Oval on Jan. 11.

It was a fourth round match of the cup competition conducted jointly by the American Football Association of New Jersey, and the Advisory Board of the A. F. A. disallowed the victory, sustaining the Robins' protest and ordering the game replayed next Sunday on Morse Oval, Brooklyn.

The protest was based on the ineligibility of Joseph Kershaw outside right of the Morse team. Kershaw, an ex-Canadian and a brilliant forward, is a roving amateur and the Morse team is the fourth on the list of the season's other being Diestons of Philadelphia, Merchants Ship of Harrison, Pa., and Babcock & Wilcox P. C. of Bayonne, N. J.

Wilde-Mason Bout Off; Mike Ertle to Oppose Briton in Next Fight

A WORLD'S boxing championship that had almost reached a climax was declared off, yesterday, at Milwaukee. This was the Jimmy Wilde-Frankie Mason bout, which had been announced as for the world's flyweight championship and was to have been within the legal limit of 108 pounds.

The calling off of the match was officially announced to the Post-Dispatch in a telegram from David Hughes, Wilde's representative, which reads as follows:

"My next opponent changed from Frankie Mason to Mike Ertle of Minneapolis, weight 115 pounds, at 3 o'clock Jan. 20. Mason's demand of $5000 and refusal to accept 15 per cent. caused club to cancel bout."

DAVID HUGHES.

Mike Ertle is a brother of Johnny Ertle, former bantam title claimant. He is considered an improving boy. Mason claims a victory over him.

SPENCER IS WINNER IN ONE-MILE SKATING RACE

CHARLIE SPENCER, noted out the veteran Joe Forshaw in the one-mile ice skating race held at the Winter Garden last night. Spencer passed Forshaw in the final stretch. J. K. Cummins finished third and Ralph Graves fourth. The time was 2 minutes 45 seconds. Ten skaters participated.

This was the second of a series of elimination events being staged to decide the city championship.

Harry Greb Signs To Fight Dempsey

Buffalo Club Trying to Land Go for May 30—Champion Still Unsigned.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 20.—Harry Greb, a local boxer who claims the middleweight championship of the world, will fight Jack Dempsey, heavyweight title holder in a ten-round bout in Buffalo, N. Y., the night of May 30, providing the Carpenter-Dempsey bout does not take place within the next six months.

Greb has signed for the bout, which is to be held in Auditorium, Buffalo. The local middleweight returned from Buffalo, today, having been in conference there with officials of the Queensbury Club which will stage the fight.

With regard to the plans for the battle for the title Greb is to get $15,000 while Dempsey is said to have been guaranteed $50,000 for his end. Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, has not yet signed the articles of agreement.

Ever since Dempsey won the heavyweight title Greb has been anxious to get a crack at him and today he appeared as happy as a baby over the proposed match.

"I'll be in great shape and the people who think Dempsey is due to score a quick knockout will have another guess coming," Greb said.

THE HENS AND THE JAZZ.

A scientist asserts that by lighting chicken coops at night and playing music to the hens a far higher rate of egg production can be secured.—News Item.

On learning that hens never slumbered
As long as it seemed to be light,
We lighted our coops—and the chickens—poor dupes
Set up and laid eggs every night.
But just as we found we were getting
The number of eggs we desired,
Being long without sleep, with a piteous peep
They turned up their toes and expired.

Undaunted by one little failure (Such failure as everyone has)
We cheered up again when we heard that the hen
Is frightfully fond of the jazz.
"If hens are enraptured by music
They will jazz round the chicken coop floor," (So the author we read in his article said)
"And lay twice as fast as before."

We therefore put in a piano
And, greatly delighted, we found
When we started to play in our rather crude way
That the hens began dancing around.
They swarmed from the yard by the hundred
They crowded the windows and doors,
They danced till they dropped, but whenever we stopped
They would flap with their wings for encores.

And now (though afar in the distance)
Whenever a phonograph plays,
Or a street organ groans in lugubrious tones
Our hens thread the jazzian noise
And never an egg do they furnish
The fowls simply can't spare the time.
And hens are no use if they cannot produce
But their jazzing is really sublime!
